

MAIDSTONE CROSS

MAIDSTONE CROSS - A hamlet rather than a village as it seems to be called and has been known as, is a bustling crossroads community, situated about 10 miles east of the City of Windsor and four miles west of the town of Essex at the junction where Hwy #114 meets Hwy. #3. In 1953 it had a population of 291 people and in 1969 it had approximately doubled. Its population still consists mostly of the pioneer Irish families who settled here in the early 1800's, with a sprinkling of new Dutch residents, English, Scotch and European extractions. Several families have built new homes here to escape living in the nearby city of Windsor, preferring a suburban or less crowded way of life. Such names as McCarthy, Halford, McAuliffe, McCloskey, Sexton, Deehan and Beahan, Sullivan to name a few of those of Irish descent. Then others surrounding the hamlet like McLean, Collins, Greenaway, Kane, Donovan, Ellis, Danaher, and the family of Michael John of Lebanese descent who came to the hamlet and ran a store for many years with his widow, Mrs. Camilly John still in residence in 1980. Some of these family names still prevail, having fourth and fifth generations of descendants.

Way back in 1833, Maidstone Cross was named by a man named Joseph Bennett, who came here from Maidstone, England. In 1951, in the month of September a Mr. Rupert J. Armitage came from the English Maidstone to visit our Maidstone, bringing greetings from that municipality and its mayor. He was an Executive of a large Confectionary Company from there, and brought with him many packages of their special kind of toffee which he passed around to school children of our Maidstone here in Canada. The Councils of both Maidstone and Sandwich South Townships declared a holiday for the children and all gathered to meet Mr. Armitage. The hamlet of Maidstone is located at the extreme eastern point of Sandwich South Township where the townline of both townships form a junction at No. 3 Highway. In the early days the hamlet was larger and had more industry than at present and was a stage coach stop. There was a Toll Gate located here also on what then was called Talbot Road and which is #3 Highway today. There were three tollgates along this road on the route to Windsor, one at Essex, one at Maidstone Cross, and one at Oldcastle. They were eventually all burned. For further particulars on these Toll Gates refer to Oldcastle W.I Tweedsmuir History -Vol 2, "Municipal-Toll Gates".

Following the stage coaches and prior to 1929, the hamlet was served by an electric railway called The Windsor, Essex & Lake Shore Railway with several single coaches plied between the City of Windsor and the Town of Leamington every day. Maidstone Cross was one of the stops along the way to pick up passengers and mail. Passengers either alighted for the city or were dispatched here on their way to the surrounding countryside. Students used this route home from city schools and back again over weekends and some daily. Many of the country ladies who were farm wives used this service from Maidstone Cross to transport their wares to the city market both on Saturdays and Markets through the week especially on and during holidays and the fruit seasons when there would be market days. They would fill up their horse-driven democrats or buggies to the hamlet and tie their horses up in a long wooden drive-shed which was located almost in front of the Trolley stop and was to the rear of the old Nace Halford Store and a hotel which stood at the Junction corner. They would transfer their butter, eggs, fowl, baking, etc., also vegetables and fruits in season to the W.E. & L.S Trolley and continue on to the Windsor Market. Enough hay and water was left for the horse to feed on during the long wait for the return of its owners about four or five o'clock in late afternoon. What these farm ladies and sometimes their children would bring back home with them. Anything from new spring or Easter hats, clothes, shoes and generally things that was not available on the farm. One mother I knew of had to buy her young daughter a new hat for three Saturdays in a row because it rained on all of them and spoiled her new bonnet. The Electric Trolley was replaced by Greyhound Bus Service until after WW2 when Charterways and Habkirk's took over the bus service until 1978 when the Chatham Coach Lines have the franchise. During WW2 this busline which also came around from Leamington to Harrow and on into Windsor via Walker Road to all the factories where so many of the county people were employed in the auto plants making ammunition and military parts, and gasoline was rationed, this system catered to the shifts so that the workers could get back and forth each day. It was a big boon to High School students, College and University students and office workers going to the city each and every day through the week.

In 1890 the Post Office was established here at Maidstone Cross with Thomas Moran as the first Post Master. Shortly after, Ignatius Halford took over the Post Office and was Post Master for 51 years in the same place. He also took over the general store and the Post Office was within the store. The store was first owned by the same Joseph Bennett who gave Maidstone Cross its name. It was from here that Rural Mail Service in the area started around 1912 with Wm. Lloyd as route courier. Later the mail was carried by George & Thos. Gerard. There are three routes out of Maidstone Cross today from a brand new Post Office opened Dec. 1st, 1969 with Arnold Axcell as Post Master. The new structure is built at the Intersection of No. 3 Highway and #114 Highway where the old Hotel used to stand. Mr. Leslie Jackson was Acting Postmaster following the death of Postmistress, Mrs. John D. Walker (Mary Christine Halford), daughter of Ignatius, who died in May, 1968 and who followed her father in this capacity following his death. In 1969, Mr. Axcell was well equipped to handle this office as he had been route courier for Maidstone #3 Route for several years. Route Courier for No. 1 Maidstone had Mr. & Mrs. Tom Shanahan for over 25 years and who retired in March, 1962 at the age of 76 years. There are now three routes out of the hamlet - Courier on No. 1 is Mrs. Frances St. Louis; No. 2 - Paul Chouinard and No. 3 - Mrs. N. Nikita. Mr. Axcell retired on October 28, 1977 as Postmaster at Maidstone Cross and was replaced by Mr. Robert Jackson who started his new duties Nov. 7, 1977.

The telephone office started here in 1910, when a move was on to form a Municipal Telephone System in Sandwich South Township. The committee appointed was Ignatius Halford, David Ure, John S. Plant, Frank O'Neil and Thomas McKee. The system came into being April, 8th, 1910 but it was not until October 1st., 1910 that service started. In September of that year Ignatius Halford built an addition to his home to accommodate the new Central Office. Frank O'Neil became manager but he resigned on March 8th, 1912. At that time there were 313 subscribers with Charles O'Brien as Superintendant. Jan. 1st., 1915 the Sandwich South Central was moved to the house next to the Halford residence. Miss Madge Sexton was operator and resigned in January, 1913 and was replaced by Miss M. Greenaway, then in March, 1914 Miss Clara Allen became the new operator. On Feb. 16th, 1916, Charles O'Brien was appointed Lineman, at a salary of $500.00. Mrs. Annie Markham became operator in 1923 and the new Municipal Central Office building was completed and opened for service, Thursday, Dec. 29th, 1926. The cost was $3,500.00 and Mrs. Markham had her residence in the building. The System was sold to the Bell Telephone Company on March 25th, 1957 for $30,000.00 and had 475 subscribers and the Bell took over March 30th, 1957. Mrs. Markham had retired from active service and was given permission to live in the house with a monthly pension. Mrs. Gordon Saylor was Chief Operator, who had been a operator for seven years coming to the office in 1951 until 1958. Mrs. Tremblay and a Miss Hill were assistants. Mrs. Ronald Holland (Dolores John) was night operator. In mid-October it went on the dial system (1958). The office building and house sold in July, 1964, after 34 years of service for $5,500.00 to Edwin Hillyard. Today (1980) all the former subscribers from the Maidstone Central have either two-party lines or business phones free of toll to the City of Windsor, Tecumseh, Emeryville, Pleasant Park, McGregor, LaSalle, Amherstburg and Essex.

The surrounding area of both Maidstone & Sandwich South Townships who claim Roman Catholic Faith is served by St. Mary's R.C. Church, which is a landmark in the area and is located on No. 3 Highway just beyond the intersection of #114 on the north side. It was built in 1874, that is the present structure, there being a former church early in the 18th Century on what was then known as the Middle Road, then Highway #98 and presently County Road #46. It has a cemetery in connection where many of the pioneer settlers are laid to rest. Between the church and the cemetery there is a fine Convent House, built in 1945 where Sisters of St. Joseph reside and teach in the community R. C. Schools. There is the Priest's House or Parsonage adjoining the church and a large community hall, also on church property along with one of the most modern baseball parks in the County. The Maidstone Shamrock Club has won many trophies and championships. They also have a Green Hornet Hockey Team, who have won many championships also. St. Mary's R. C. Union Central School is located between the church and the cemetery. The pupils are gathered up by bus each school day and brought to this school from both Sandwich South & Maidstone Township. This school's history is listed under "Schools of Sandwich South" in the Tweedsmuir Volumes.

Maidstone Cross had its inventors too from the hamlet: July 1, 1904 - Wm. McCloskey invented and patented a new type cultivator. Nov. 29th, 1918 - Leo & James McCloskey, who has their McCloskey tractor patented in both Canada & the U.S.A., sold their patent to Simon Royal Motors of Toronto for cash and a royalty on each tractor sold.

The following article written by Thomas P. McCloskey of Maidstone Cross, a pioneer resident, recounts some of the early happenings in the hamlet, which was a Crossing in those days. This article was written in 1953.

MAIDSTONE in those days was a very lively place, there was plenty of timber and everyone was working the year round (wages .90¢ & $1.00 a day). When the farmer had his crops harvested, he would work in the woods, cutting and hauling logs, cordwood (4 ft. long) and bolts for making barrel staves, to the mill and railway yards to be shipped. Most of the cordwood was shipped to Detroit, as coal and wood were the only fuels used in those days.

There was plenty of snow from early Fall until the Spring, except during the January thaw. It was a common saying that there were thousands of Januarys, but no one ever saw one without a thaw. The drainage was not very good at that time so when there was a thaw the land would be flooded and then freeze. The woods and fields would be a sheet of ice. The farmers used to let the horses which were not being used, run in the bush all winter. On the first farm west of the M.C.R.R., a number of horses were stranded on a small piece of dry land and the local blacksmith (Thomas McCloskey) had to put shoes on the horses in order to get them to the barn.

There was a saw mill and flour mill just west of the M.C.R.R. track, on Talbot Rd., now No. 3 Highway. These mills were operated by a Mr. Munro and then by a Mr. McKinley, and the last ones to operate them were the Orr Brothers, who, when the timber was gone, dismantled these buildings, and took them to Windsor, where they built a flour mill on the corner of London (now University) and Church Sts., which had been used by Boulton's Wholesale Groceries up until 1953, and then was up for sale. So the timbers that are in this building are out of the mills that stood in Maidstone Cross.

We also had a mill $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles south of Maidstone which was operated by Mr. Charles Little. The mill was located on the M.C.R.R. and a tram road of three inch planks was laid out to No. 3 Highway (Talbot Road). We also had a saw mill and stave mill, $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles west of Maidstone on Talbot Road, operated by Abraham Halford. There was a soft drink bottling works on the easterly end of the farm. One could buy it by the bottle and they advertised same with a sign "Come on in, Ma's away, and we got Pop on ice!"

Frank McCloskey operated a carriage shop in the building now used by Mrs. Mike John as a store. There were two men who learned their trade in this building, George Quenting and Martin Collier, who went into Business in Windsor. This place of Business was located where the Police Station stands today. Mr. Collier built the woodwork on the first electric car that ran in America. The trial track was from the C.N.R. Depot to the Peabody Bridge in Windsor, where the power was generated. When the car was ready to be taken out of the building, they found that the door opening was not large enough, so had to enlarge same (the building being constructed of lumber) and wasn't too hard to do.

Charles Kavanagh who learned his trade with Frank McCloskey, operated a carriage shop in the church, the one that was used before the present church was built. The corner stone for the present church was laid in 1854. Mr. McKinley who operated the saw and flour mills, put an upstairs in the old church and it was used as a roller rink and the skates were made the same as they are today. One could rent the skates for .15¢ per evening and some of the boys used to get them for .08¢ as there was a .03¢ piece, the size of a dime, with three strokes on one side. Mr. McKinley's eyesight was not very good so he would pick up same as .15¢. This rink was in use between 85-95 years ago - 1868-1878.

The church burned down in the early 1880's, about 80 years ago and then there was a hotel built on the site which was moved back and the present garage built. There were three shoe shops here operated by a Mr. Jacques and a Mr. Wollett. The last to operate one was George Nelson, who, when last heard of, was operating a shoe and repair shop at the Canadian Saulte. In those shops they would take one's measurements and make the boots and shoes. There were two general stores here kept by Rush Moran and later by James Hawkins, Emery Caya, Adolph Chevalier and Ignatius Halford, then Mr. & Mrs. John Walker (Mary Halford) and in 1970 demolished and torn down. Between 85 or 95 years ago this store and post office was robbed, (it was on a Christmas eve). There was an upstairs at that time where Mr. Moran lived. A man by the name of Peter Tierney was stopping for the night and heard the robbers. He raised the window and shot a gun off and scared the robbers away. The whole hamlet was aroused by the ringing of the church bell and they got around the building. There was not one brave enough to go into the building, so the parish priest had a large Newfoundland dog and they put the dog in the back door and it was not long until the dog came out with a bologna 4" through and 14" long. Later on the robbers were arrested and admitted robbing the store. One of the men's name was Calligan, who had broken jail in Sandwich.

The first telephone line ran through here and there was a telephone in the present store and postoffice, it being placed on the end of shoe shelving at a window at the south side of the store, so that in speaking to one on the job, one would have his back to the front door. There was a man by the name of Michael Savage who did not know there was such a thing as a telephone and who went into the store after it was installed and he saw Mr. Moran talking to someone on the phone. Savage did not stay long but went over to the hotel operated then by Jerry Collins and made the remark "that it was too bad". Mr. Collins asked what was wrong. Savage said Tom Moran had gone crazy because he was standing up talking to a black bottle.

There was a tailor shop opposite Frank McCloskey's Carriage Shop, operated by his father. There were two hotels here operated with one at the rear of the present store and the other which was located on the southeast corner of the Middle Road (County Road #46 today). This hotel was operated by Mrs. McGee, Mr. Beaufor, Mr. Beaton, Webb Bros. and James Mero. The stable in connection with this hotel stands on the farm owned by Raymond Beneteau, near the Six Corners. James Hayes built a hotel where the old church stood. This was operated by James Hayes and in turn Patrick Danaher, Patrick Donovan, Harry North, Frank Hart, Peter Sullivan and the last one to operate it was Charles Little (better known as Nip). The people of Sandwich South voted in favor of local option, Jan. 3rd., 1910 and that is as the township stands today. When #3 Highway (Talbot Road) had tollgates on the building the collector lived in, which stood on the southwest corner of Talbot Road and Malden Road (a military road running to Fort Malden in Amherstburg. The reason for having Toll Gates was that the road was very bad in some places and they had to put 3" planks across bad places. A man by the name of Cameron agreed to gravel the road and keep it in shape for travel. The land south of Essex being of a gravelly nature the road was taken care of from the south end of the Town of Essex to the corner of Howard Avenue, Tecumseh Road. The road at the northern extremity which was about where Roseland is today was known as the Cameron Rd. then. There being Toll Gates at the south and east side of Essex, at Maidstone, Oldcastle, Jackson's Corners (which is Roseland today) and on the corner of Tecumseh Road and Howard Ave. A man by the name of Dawson kept the road in shape. The Toll Gates ceased to exist in 1890 when a gang of men disguised themselves, and, starting at Essex, removed the furniture and set the buildings on fire through to Tecumseh Road. (There is one of these men living on this road at present). The fires were termed an act of God.

A large stage coach travelled between Leamington and Windsor (this was before the road was kept in shape for travel). When the road was real bad they sold three different fares. First class - one stayed on the coach; second class - when they came to a bad spot they had to get out and walk; and third class - if they got stuck they had to help to get out. The worst part of the road was just south of the cemetery (St. Mary's, Maidstone). This was called the Willow Swamp. This was the time of the American Civil War and there was a great number skipping the country and coming over here. (They called them, the skidders). They are still doing it today (1980) but they label them draft dodgers. There were two husky men took a third class fare and when the coach got as far as the Willow Swamp, it got stuck. There was plenty of fence rail so they each got one under the rear axle. The driver told them when he said "gid up" for them to lift. The coach did not budge so the driver went to the rear and found out that instead of the coach coming up, the men sank down in the mud. A Mr. Wigle told of driving a horse and buggy from Leamington to Windsor when the roads were real bad. When he got to Willow Swamp there was a man's hat on the road. He got out and when he lifted up the hat there was a man's head under it. He was sunk down in the mud. He asked the man where he was going to, and the man said Windsor. Mr. Wigle invited him to ride with him. The man thanked him and said that he was on horseback.

When the present pavement was laid they dug up some of the planks that were put in bad places.

We also had butchers here, Joseph Totten and William Hickey, whose slaughterhouse stood opposite the present store and post office on Malden Road, near the Mc. R. tracks. There is part of the lumber that was in this building in a garage that stands on this property today (1953).

MAIDSTONE, ENGLAND, GREETES MAIDSTONE, ONTARIO

Maidstone, Ont., recently received felicitations from its counterpart, Maidstone, Eng., when R. C. Armitage, executive of a leading British confectionery manufacturer, visited the town bearing greetings to Reeve Walter McMurren of Maidstone Township and its citizens from the English city's mayor. An Englishman named Pennett, settling at the present town site 118 years ago, gave the town its name.

S. in the interests of his firm, Edward Sharp & Sons, Limited, makers of Sharp's English Toffee and who supervised the Company's exhibit at the C. N. E. in Toronto. ENTERS STORE

Mrs. Eli Malenfant, whose husband operates a garage and hardware store about a mile west of Maidstone, said Marleau entered the garage shortly before noon Monday. After standing around for some time, he walked to a soft drink cooler, opened the top, then turned away.

Mrs. Malenfant, nervous because of the unkempt appearance of the visitor, summoned her husband from their home next door, but Marleau had left the store and was walking toward Maidstone when Mr. Malenfant arrived.

He was next seen in the village, outside the general store operated by John D. Walker. The proprietor, with Cyril McAuliffe, a neighbor, and Arnold Axcell, a mail delivery man, watched Marleau from the store.

HAND INSIDE SHIRT

"He kept walking back and forth along the road, peering into the store," Mr. Walker said. "He kept his left hand inside his shirt, and we figured he had a gun."

The three men in the store said Marleau finally left the vicinity and walked east toward the Roman Catholic Church on No. 3 Highway a few yards east of the store. Axcell ran to the nearby telephone office and called O.P.P. headquarters at Essex.

Within minutes Constable Williams arrived at the scene. He found Marleau sitting on the

Gun Battle Hospitalizes Ottawa Man

Provincial Constable Wins Deadly Duel South of Maidstone

By PAT WHEALEN

An Ottawa man who lived for several days in the bush south of Maidstone and emerged to fight a running gun battle with provincial police Monday afternoon is in Grace Hospital with a bullet wound in the head.

FIRES FOUR SHOTS

Constable George Williams of the Essex detachment of the O.P.P. said Victor Marleau, 22, of Ottawa, fired four shots before the officer dropped him in his tracks in a field about a mile north of No. 3 Highway.

Constable Williams chased Marleau for more than a mile, dodging shots as he went, before he was forced to fire the bullet which wounded Marleau.

Hospital officials said this morning Marleau is in "fair" condition. X-rays are being taken to determine if the bullet is still lodged in his head.

Maidstone residents said a man answering Marleau's description has been seen in the area for several days, and it is believed he has been sleeping in the woods south of the village.

When he was first noticed Monday morning, Marleau was unkempt, bundled in heavy clothing and wearing no shoes.

 Wilfred McCarty in Sandwich

Pleased with themselves, Clar-

July 11th, 1972 - Featured in Windsor Star - MAIDSTONE - NESTLED AWAY FROM HUSTLE - With the Highway #3 bypass now providing a faster route to Essex, it's easy to miss the Hamlet of Maidstone.

From the bypass, Maidstone, for the eastbound traveller, is two elevators, a large red brick church, a post office, a store and a cluster of houses. The older route to Essex, Talbot Road is slower but more scenically rewarding with the fresh home-made bread, fresh fruit and vegetables and apple cider available from wayside stalls, a real bonus for a traveller. Originally called Maidstone Cross, Maidstone was once on the busy stagecoach route from Leamington and Windsor and was the centre for a lucrative timber trade. Over the years it had several sawmills, a carriage making shop, blacksmith and hotel.

Today, Maidstone has a general store, grist mill, feed and grain mill, a new telephone Exchange Building, Post Office, a Propane Supply and Chemical Supply Outlets. It boasts one of the most Modern baseball parks in the county and the local Shamrock Baseball Club has won many championships.

The large red-brick St. Mary's Church is a dominant feature of the local landscape and the nearby parish hall is used for community events as well as for church activities. To the east of the church is St. Mary's Separate School and St. Joseph's Convent where teaching Nuns reside, as well as the Rectory for St. Mary's Church.

Essex Toured By Plowmen

Ontario Association Visits Mersea Farm

The Star's Leamington Bureau

LEAMINGTON — Members of the Essex County's Plowmen's Association and their guests, the executive of the Ontario's Plowmen's Association toured the county yesterday to select a site for the 1955 International Plowmen's meet which will be in Essex County.

TOUR AREA

Accompanied by members of the agricultural committee of the Essex County Council, members of the Mersea Township and Leamington Council the group toured a number of municipalities and viewed prospective sites.

They visited the John Rahm farm on the 7th concession of Mersea Township where a tract 60 rods wide stretches from the 7th to the 8th concession roads.

The farm of Dr. C. E. Knister, Comber, on Highway 98, was considered as was that of Percy McKee on Howard avenue.

What the association needs is a tract of land large enough to give contestants the same type of soil so they will be on an equal basis in the competitions. The location is also important from the standpoint of proximity to a number of highways and availability of hydro and water.

After viewing the various sites, the delegation stated they would report to the Ontario association and decide on a location at the association's forthcoming meeting.

Says he is feeling well, but slowing up- the Dodger's victory made the blood run faster- but it's so nice to re-live the famous Maidstone Shamrock's victories, and wonders why with such talent at St. Mary's, that we do not have another baseball team, with such stars that play on other teams as the collin's boys, the Flood boys, Ralph Jobin, Frank Lafferty, Tommy McCloskey, Ray Kavanagh, Tommy Malcolm, Garnet Jobin, and those younger generation teen-agers coming up, whose dads starred on the teams of a few years ago. Jan. 14, 1955, - E.F.P. - ED DEEHAN INSTANTLY KILLED: The community was shocked on Saturday morning to learn of the death of Edward Deehan whose car was hit by No. 47 of the New York Central Railway at the grade crossing here. Returning to his home about 9.25 a.m. from the village, Mr. Deehan had stopped at the crossing to let an east bound freight pass, and when a truck started to cross, Mr. Deehan, no doubt, did not see the westbound flyer approaching. The train was running about two hours late, so it made it seem a matter of fate. Mr. Deehan, a highly respected farmer, was a most careful driver. He was born here at Maidstone, on February 14th, 1884, son of the late James Deehan and Elizabeth Robinson, and has resided here all his life. He married Agnes Kane, Nov. 29th, 1911, who survives, and raised a big family on the farm he prided highly. There were three sons, Roy, who died in 1929, and Ted and Stanley, who survive to mourn his loss; also eight daughters, Margaret, Mrs. John Hayes of Detroit; Frances, Mrs. Gordon Thoms, of Windsor; Miss Edna of Detroit; Grace, Mrs. Norbert Plunkett, of Detroit; Mary, Mrs. Arsene Drouillard, of McGregor; Catherine, Mrs. Leonard Trottier, of Chatham; Vera, Mrs. William Langlois, Miss Odella, R.N., of Detroit; three brothers, John Deehan of Kincardine; Walter, of Windsor; Ernest, of Maidstone; four sisters, Jennie, Mrs. Neil Ponabaker, of Hespeler; Mae, Mrs. Pat Ryder, of Detroit; Ada Belle, Mrs. Alex. Allen, and Myrtle, Mrs. Pat Donovan, both of Windsor. There are 23 grandchildren. He was a devout member of St. Mary's Church and belonged to the Holy Name Society and the League of the Sacred Heart. Funeral was held Tuesday morning from the family home to St. Mary's Church at 10 a.m. Rev. Fr. J. A. Jordan officiated and burial was in the family plot. Mr. Deehan was highly respected and one of the best neighbors you could have, as the hundreds who extended their sympathy to the family attested. He had a quiet disposition and was an exemplary living man, and enjoyed his family and farm, as he was a most successful farmer. His was one of the largest funerals of St. Mary's, showing the deep esteem held for the deceased. May, 1956, E. F. P. - Most fellas have a pet or two but the young set at Sid Shuttleworth's have two or three. Last year their menagerie included a pet rabbit, raccoon and a stinker. You can guess what a stinker is. Just plain skunk. Most stories of the skunk family are not pleasant but the young Shuttleworth's association with the skunks is a happy one. Mr. skunk plays around with his farm friends as any cat would without so much as one little squirt of backwoods perfume. Sorry to say Sid doesn't trust "Skunky" like the youngsters which adds to the old saying "there is no colour line among the very young". Taken out of Carson Jessop's Oldcastle Highlights column.

Sandwich S. Farm Blaze Ca $15,000 Dama

THE WINDSOR STAR, JULY 28, 1956.

Torrid Sun Ignites Hay Above Barn

Animals Rescued In Bid to Save Contents, Machinery

Charred ruin is all that remains of a barn, several sheds, and 10 acres of wheat, as a result of a fire which raged uncontrolled Friday afternoon on the property of Russell Robinson, Concession 10, Sandwich South.

Damage was an estimated $15,000.

Discounting two tractors, two wagons, several small farm implements and six cows, which were rescued from the flames by the owner and neighbors, the buildings and contents were reported "a complete loss."

In the rescue operation, Mr. Robinson just missed being struck on the head by a falling beam.

Anderdon Twp. firemen arrived at the scene minutes after they received the call, but already the blaze had destroyed barn and buildings and only one corner of a shed remained standing.

Fire trucks were then moved into surrounding wheat fields, but 10 acres of the field were devastated.

Included in the loss were farm machinery, valued at more than $1,000, 40 rabbits, several chickens, three bicycles, 90 bales of straw, and 200 bushels of oats.

The fire, which started in the loft of the barn, ripped through the structure and spread to within 15 feet of the frame house before firemen brought it under control. Two fire trucks and three hoses were used.

Firemen were summoned by Mr. Robinson, who noticed smoke pouring from the barn about 3 p.m. About 250 bales of dry hay, stored in the loft for over a year, were partially responsible for the rate at which the fire burned, firemen said.

They said it was not uncommon for dried hay, stored in a hot place, to ignite.

Mr. Robinson, his wife, and five children had moved to the farm four years ago, from a nearby farm.

time police estimated almost three miles of bumper to bumper cars on the road of neighbors who came to try and help save the beautiful farm home of Mr. Hayes. There was only $3,000 of insurance and Mr. Hayes estimated the loss to replace the three barns as close to $40,000. The oldest barn being 67 yrs old. Mr. Hayes, owner of the 75 acre farm praised the efforts of his cousin, Gordon Jobin, who was able to save thousands of dollars of machinery. During the night of the blaze, Mr. Jobin backed a tractor beside the flaring buildings and hitched a chain on a 150-gallon tank of gasoline which he managed to pull clear. Mr. Hayes received burns to his left hand and arm while attempting to help firemen quell the blaze. Flames leaped 200 feet into the air spewing sparks onto neighboring barns, threatening at one time to destroy two additional buildings. A bucket brigade was formed by neighbors and passing motorists who managed to extinguish a blaze on a roof of an implement shed.

$40,000 FARM FIRE — Damage estimated at $40,000 was caused when a fire levelled three barns on the farm of Joseph Hayes, Con. 9,

'Strange Circumstances' Contrive Final Rendezvous

By DAN ODETTE

THE WINDSOR STAR, SEPTEMBER 21, 1957

A 27-year-old woman left to pay her back rent with baby bonus cheques, and three young girls died.

Her husband decided to do a favor and he and another man were killed.

It was a strange set of circumstances that led up to the death of five persons at 4:02 p.m. Friday when a C.P.R. passenger train disintegrated a 1948 panel truck.

The death blow fell heaviest on Mrs. Mary Drefko, 27, of Joy Rd., in the Maryland section of Sandwich South, about a mile south of Highway 2.

Her husband, Paul, 30, and two daughters, Roberta 2, and Peggy (Margaret) were killed.

Mrs. Drefko's third of four daughters, Norma, 4, received a fractured right leg and possible internal injuries.

Susan, 5, her only other child, missed the fatal ride because she attended class at S.S. 1.

It was the second crushing blow for Mrs. Drefko in four years, for in 1953 her first husband, David Berley, died of a heart attack.

Susan and Norma were children of the first marriage.

Mrs. Drefko remarried a year later.

The other victim was June Taylor, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Taylor, of Ray Rd., one block from the Drefko home.

She was one of the Taylors' five daughters. The others, Diane, 13, Rosemarie, 10, Shirley Anne, 7, and Nancy, 5, were attending St. Christopher's School.

Both Mr. Drefko and Mr. Taylor, 32, had been laid off from their permanent jobs, the former from L. A. Young Industries since May and the latter from Chrysler's for about a month.

Mr. Taylor decided Friday to go out and pick mushrooms. He left about 7:45 a.m. to take Mrs. Taylor, 30, to her job at Antaya's tomato canning plant on Lesperance Rd.

Before they left, Mr. Taylor took June over to the Drefkos.

Around 1 o'clock, Mrs. Drefko left with her baby bonus cheques to pay the rent, which was in arrears.

She walked down Joy Rd. and met Pietro Vozza, 33, of 772 Langlois Ave., a driver for Superior Cleaners, 360 Park St. W., the fifth victim.

Mr. Vozza was on his way to the Drefko home to pick up Mr. Drefko.

Mr. Drefko had worked for about a week for Superior Cleaners, but had quit on Tuesday because he wasn't earning enough money.

He had taken a Civil Service examination to become a fireman at the Windsor Airport and had high hopes he passed. He would have known the result in three weeks.

Mr. Vozza wanted Mr. Drefko to aid him in returning clothing to the home from which the latter had picked it up during his employment with the cleaning firm.

It is presumed that Mr. Drefko agreed, and rather than leave the children unattended, the men put the three girls in the truck.

It is believed that the men were almost through their deliveries as they headed south of the Maidstone Line.

When they came to the crossing, no one knows what happened.

But the C.P.R. train, 634, consisting of a steam engine, a baggage car and passenger car, apparently struck the vehicle dead centre on the crossing, which has no wigwag, bells or a flasher.

It was not until about five hours after the crash that the families knew of the deaths.

Susan was returning from school and decided to stop at the Taylors to play. She was still huddled in an easy chair, clutching her metal lunch box, when a reporter and photographer visited the home.

Mrs. Drefko had visited her two sister-in-laws, Mrs. Stanley Kurek, 979 Campbell Ave., and Mrs. Philip Miles, 1665 Taylor Ave.

She was given a ride home by Mr. and Mrs. Miles.

Upon her arrival she knew something was amiss because the home was in darkness.

On Sunday afternoon, Rev. Fr. J. H. Chisholm, assisted by his two acolytes gowned in red sutons and white lace surplices, John D. No. 2 and No. 7 opened for classes on Tuesday morning with Sister Mary Daniel and Sister Clarence in charge and it is hoped No. 8 will open on Monday. 9/21/57.

Provincial Inspector Probes Barn Blaze in Sandwich S.

THE WINDSOR STAR, OCT. 3, 1957

MAIDSTONE — The Ontario Fire Marshal's office is investigating a $35,000 fire in Sandwich South Twp. Saturday that destroyed a barn, 47 head of cattle, farm implements and feed.

Insp. John Richards is carrying out the probe at the farm of Tom Croft, Con. 11, Sandwich S. The investigation is reported routine where heavy damage is involved, and because of the increasing number of barn fires in Essex and throughout the province.

Stock from a purebred Jersey herd of fine pedigree were among cattle destroyed in the fire. The fire, which broke out suddenly, spread rapidly and firemen confined their efforts to preventing the blaze spreading.

Sandwich S. Dairy Man Loses Crop

Costly Implements, Milk Production Go Up in Smoke

Forty-seven head of cattle burned to death Saturday night in a $35,000 blaze that levelled an L-shaped barn filled with hay, feed and straw, a recently filled silo and farm implements on the Tom Croft farm, Con. 11, Sandwich South, between Highways 98 and 401. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Mr. Croft was in the barn less than 20 minutes before the blaze was noticed. "Everything was all right when I left," Mr. Croft said. "I had barely been in the house a few minutes when the barn was blazing from one end to the other. I could not get back in."

Four cows were taken out of the barn with the help of neighbors, but a veterinarian told Mr. Croft that while the cattle might survive, they're in a deep state of shock and would be better put out of their misery.

The rest of the animals, 32 milk cows, burned to death in their stanchions. A pure bred Jersey bull and 14 heifers were also lost.

The purebred Jersey herd had been acquired in recent months. Some of the cows were of exceptionally fine pedigree and came from Brampton's top Jersey herds.

Besides the cattle, the front end of one tractor was badly damaged by fire; a combine, hay baler, forage blower and milking machine are a complete loss.

The Croft farm production was closely integrated with the dairy herd, consequently most of the crop went with the barn and cattle, and with the flames went the income from 560 pounds of milk daily.

The Anderdon Fire Department and the Tecumseh Fire Department were on hand, but the fire had spread so rapidly they could do little more than confine the blaze to the barn.

Mr. Croft is undecided whether he will rebuild and restock his farm. The long wing of the L-shaped barn was 69 by 34 feet, the shorter 50 feet by 36.

"I don't think I would rebuild the same type of barn," Mr. Croft said. "I wouldn't have all that hay and straw overhead. Almost any kind of storage is suitable for hay and straw, and why have all that stuff overhead. It was just like putting those cattle in a furnace."

Mr. Croft said he would prefer his cattle in one building and hay and straw in another.

Aug. 22, 1958 - Article taken out of Carson Jessop's Column, our Oldcastle long time scribe: Progress may be good for a nation but parts of that nation and people who are accustomed to the quiet side of community life never seem to become used to progress. Farming people have never quite got used to progress in some parts of the northern areas of Sandwich South. Planes overhead, roar of cars and trucks on the new 401 Freeway, combined with the wail of the electric horns from diesel railway locomotives, turns a quiet summer night into various sounds that is foreign to the ears of a quiet countryside. Peaceful crickets, moan of the wind, or the barking of a far off dog is drowned out by something that is not in harmony with nature. Doctors claim today that many of the nervous diseases are the result of the noise of machinery we live with. No more does the human system have a chance to live and relax in quiet calmness of a countryside. People who are accustomed to these noises cannot relax when the sudden shell of a quiet interlude appears around them. Reports are that our sanitoriums are filled with people suddenly gone mad from a world of progress. So its either progress and madness or just live and let live you pay your money and take your choice.

CHARRED RUINS OF SERVICE STATION, HARDWARE WINDSOR STAR, AUG. 10
—Ontario Fire Marshal to investigate early morning fire on Highway 3 1959

Flames Destroy Service Station, Damage House

THE WINDSOR STAR, AUG. 10, 1959

Series of Misfortunes

Follows Start of Gas War

The Ontario Fire Marshal's Department will investigate a fire that levelled a combined service station-hardware and severely damaged a nearby house on Highway 3 just west of Maidstone early this morning.

Total damage is estimated at more than $48,000.

Flames and billows of black smoke rose more than 150 feet above the station and lit up the sky for miles around.

The station was owned by Vernon Nielson and the house by Eli Malenfant.

Intermittent explosions of paint and shot gun shells in the hardware woke up residents several miles away.

It was the latest in a series of misfortunes that have plagued Mr. Nielson since a gas price war started in the area recently.

A desperate attempt to save his German Shepherd watch dog was made by Mr. Nielson when he arrived at the scene but he was driven back by the flames.

changes. The change has come during our daily travels in Essex County where hitchhikers are numerous. Too often, today those "thumbing" rides are only going a few blocks or at the most a mile or so. The majority are just too lazy to walk. Many can be recognized as school pupils but others are just going visiting. Every once in a while we give a boy a lift just to check on the merits of the policy we have adopted. Our last venture turned out even worse than the rest. This was in the early evening near Maidstone Village when the youth obviously was not going to or from school. The boy, who turned out to be 15, confirmed

Officials To Check Big Blaze

He smashed the glass in the garage doors to open them and free the dog and suffered a badly gashed hand. He sobbed as he recounted the incident to police.

Firemen from Anderdon Twp. devoted most of their efforts to saving the house.

They trained their hoses on the north wall facing the station but it was completely charred and the interior of the house severely damaged by smoke and water.

The owner of the house, Mr. Malenfant, is holidaying at Sault Ste. Marie.

Police broke down the door and searched the house to see if there was anyone inside.

Firemen were hampered by a shortage of water and had to shuffle their two trucks back-and-forth to a hydrant on the Maidstone-Sandwich South Town Line a mile away.

By the time they arrived from their station more than 10 miles away, the fire was out of control.

Lost in the fire were a tow truck and a complete stock of garage tools and hardware merchandise.

A passing motorist was the first to notice the fire and sounded the alarm by honking his horn. He saw smoke seeping out the garage doors as he was passing at 3:45 a.m.

A neighbor, John Malcolm, who heard the honking and looked out the window, called firemen.

A large crowd of area residents, many in their night-clothes, gathered around the fire but kept at a safe distance because of the regular explosions that sent bursts of flame hundreds of feet into the air.

A tank truck from the Sandwich West brigade arrived to assist the Anderdon firemen but the garage was levelled before they were able to provide water.

The fire is believed to have started in a small room in the service station used to store tar. Its origin is unknown.

Firemen believe that if there had been a southerly wind the frame house that was less than 20 feet from the station would have been destroyed.

When they removed shingles from the roof of the home, flames shot into the air but were quickly extinguished.

An attempt to enter the station was made when the firemen first arrived but the smoke and flames were so severe that they were driven back at the entrance.

At one stage, they had to stand back helplessly as they waited for their trucks to bring more water.

Mr. Nielson, who lives at 3765 Rosemount Ave., Windsor, was at home at the time of the fire. He frequently sleeps in a small cement block bungalow that was converted from a garage at the rear of the station. It was also destroyed.

He estimated damage to his station at $40,000. Damage to the house was estimated at more than $8,000.

our thinking. He was only going down the road a mile to visit friends and he had the audacity to ask us to sell him a cigarette for two cents. This was, of course, after he queried us about the brand we were smoking.

The people used to buy useful presents at Christmas in those days. A man who had three sons working in the woods in winter, went to Windsor to buy the boys a Christmas present and he bought them a new crosscut saw and they were delighted with it. On the corner of the Malden Road and the South Rear Road, a man by the name of Delisle made potash and for every bushel of ashes he gave a bar of soap. Recently there was a man in his nineties came back to Maidstone and expected to find a very large place, as it was larger than Essex when he left here. There was no railroad track here when he left, the main line running to this side of Amherstburg to a place called Gordon, where they took the cars to the American side. So nearly all the landmarks were gone and he had an idea how far Maidstone was from Windsor and when the man he was driving with, got two miles past Maidstone, he said to him "we must be near Maidstone". The man said that we have gone through it. They must have been driving fast and the old man blinked his eyes and didn't see Maidstone.

Those were the good old days. The homes were a place of entertainment, not as it is today, an eating and sleeping place.

memories of the County's first Sunday League. Woodslee, one of the original clubs of that league, should be especially interested in that trophy. "Whitney Dewhirst Trophy" was in memory of one of the finest athletes to come out of this county. Surely the Dewhirst Trophy and the Prince Trophy, donated by the late Essex Jeweller, will be looked after by those that have them. Possibly they could be procured, put in a prominent place or museum of the county.

July 1st., 1966 - St. Mary's newly appointed pastor, the Rev. John Michael Gogarty was installed as Pastor before the ten o'clock Mass on Saturday morning. Monsignor White officiated with neighboring priests Father M. D. Monaghan, of Essex; Fr. Lanoue, of Tecumseh, were in the sanctuary. Fr. O'Neil, being away, and other neighboring priests had other commitments. The cemetery Bd. had now completed pipe lines and pipe taps to the east and south of St. Stephen's Cemetery, Oldcastle.

Mar. 22, 1968 - Congratulations to the Green Hornets on their winning the Essex County Championship for the third successive year. To the manager and coach Arnold Axcel and each and every player, for their united co-operation in playing a sportsmanlike game. May you go on to win many more championships. The Oldcastle Women's Institute assisted the original Club financially by donating $100 to get them off the ground and then purchased sweaters later on. We send congratulations also. James Stitt was manager at that time.

Nov. 29, 1963 - It is with regret that the Maidstone Baseball Club announces the resignation of Maurice (Moe) Ewing as manager of the Junior Shamrocks. When the Junior Rocks were organized in 1961 Moe was asked to manage the club, he accepted, and continued to handle the Junior Rocks in 1962 and this year 1963. In his first year, 1961, put together a young hustling club, that won the Junior League Championship in its first year in the League.

Oct. 4, 1963 - Essex Free Press: ROSS FLOOD, operator of the R. C. Flood Grain Co., Ltd., feed service mill at Maidstone was honoured by the Sur-Grain Division of Canada Packers Ltd., at a dinner in Toronto, September 18, 1963, marking the 25th Anniversary of Sur-Grain Feed Service. The Flood Mill has held its Sur-Grain franchise since August 8, 1938-the first year of Sur-Grain Feed Service.

At the gathering held in conjunction with Sur-Gain's annual dealer feed conference in Toronto, presentations were made to a total of 36 charter dealers, all of them local dealers from various points in Ontario who were among the charter members of the Sur-Gain feed service mill system.

This system led to a revolution in agricultural feeding practices and since its beginning in 1938 has grown across Canada and also been adopted in many other parts of the world. The methods developed by Sur-Grain today account for approximately 40% of agricultural feed sales in the world.

Each of the Ontario Charter Dealers honoured at the Toronto function was presented with a sterling silver tie clip and cuff-link set, and a charter dealer's certificate. The presentations were made by George A. Schell, who originated the concepts of feed concentrates and local dealer feed service mills a quarter of a century ago. Mr. Schell is now Chairman of the Board of Canada Packers Limited.

Oct. 4, 1963 - E.F.P.: MRS. DAN J. MCLEAN, son John J. of East Detroit and daughter C. Clare McLean have returned from Portage La Prairie, Man., where they attended the graduation of Course 6203 at No. 2 Advanced Flying School. Group Captain J. A. Stephens, D.F.C., C.D., Senior Air Staff Officer Training Command, presented the Wings to 20 pilots with the rank of Flying Officers, which Gerald Owen McLean was one. Four being Nato Danish boys, four from Ontario, four from B.C., 2 from Quebec, 2 from Saskatchewan, 1 from Nova Scotia, 1 from Alberta and 1 from England. The guests were entertained at the Base, with a conducted tour, which included the briefing on the type of course given pilots, a visit to the Decompression Chamber, Aero-medical Section, a demonstration of the working models in the Technical Training Unit and other points of interest. The guests were thrilled in the afternoon with a demonstration of a "Fly-past" by "A" flight and aerial acrobatics by the famous "Red Knight" F.O. Wayne McCull, who on off-duties, is stationed as an Instructor at Portage. Mrs. McLean's son Gerry, left on Saturday morning for his new posting at R.C.A.F. Station, Nanamo, Alta., north of Edmonton, for "Survival" briefing and tests. Gerry hopes to get leave to be home to see his relatives and friends in two weeks, after that he will be posted to Rivers, Man., to fly Expeditors. After the graduation parade and Wings presentation there was cocktails in the Officers' Mess, followed by a dinner-dance. Gerry's friends extend congratulations to him, on this happy occasion.

Mar. 24, 1967, E.F.P.: Mr. & Mrs. Clarence Parmenter, of Dundas, have been visiting in the area and also with Mr. & Mrs. George Stewart (Helen Layson), of Essex. Mr. Parmenter is now retired as a former Provincial Police Inspector and was for many years motor-cycle patrolman in this district in the days of Art Davies, Jack Rowcliffe, "Allie" Jackson and many others. Meeting hangouts were at Allen Clark's, Matthew Collin's and Leveque Bros. garages near Oldcastle. In the days of forty mile an hour speed limits and chasing whiskey runners down dusty back roads. It has been some 35 years since Clarence has been in this district as Provincial Police Officer and he sees many changes in the type of criminal and offender of the law.

Clarence still claims that when the law stopped sparing the road it spoiled the child in many cases. We are willing to bet when that tall "Slim" and wife Anne got together at the Stewart's it was a ball of other times and memories of times and fun that don't seem to happen in this day and age of long hair and short skirts. The Parmenters lived at Maidstone when he was stationed here and this article was written by Carson Jessop, scribe of Oldcastle Highlights, and a well beloved character in himself.

Oct. 6th, 1967, E.F.P. - Maidstone is one of the most envied communities in Essex County for its organization, financing and producing of some of the best baseball players in Ontario. For many years it has been the dream of every youngster in the "Shamrock" area of Sandwich South and outlying communities to become a member of the Shamrocks. It is essentially an Irish community and the name of their ball club fits them perfectly. This Column also edited by Caeson Jessop.

Nov. 10, 1967, E.F.P.: - The old Mill Division of R. C. Flood Grain Company burned to the ground about midnight, Monday. The Floods started work on Tuesday to rebuild on a site some distance north on the M.C.R. Spurline.

OLD MAIDSTONE POST OFFICE TO BE REPLACED

Former post office

History treasures brought to life

MAIDSTONE — Pages from the past have been opened in this village.

The former post office building and general store is being demolished and the attic storeroom has proved to be a treasure chest full of yesteryear's mementos.

The structure dates back to the early 1850s and has been a landmark in the central sector of Essex County.

Articles found include old boots, shoes, hats, lamps, pictures, papers, calendars, canned goods, cracker barrels, coins and souvenirs.

Many are in original cartons and most date back to the turn of the century. One box is full of bales of weaving cotton similar to the type used for spinning wheels.

Most coins are in perfect condition. Workmen have picked up several which date back to the mid-1800s and continue to find others as they go about clearing the site.

One of the most interesting finds is a Boyds Battery medal. It was made in London, Eng., in January, 1878.

Michael Palenchar, RR 3, Maidstone, an amateur antique collector, feels the find is one of the most interesting in the area. He says it gives an important insight into the life in the village during the latter part of the past century.

The general store was closed several years ago, but the post office has carried on until the past month.

Plans call for a $30,000 structure to be built to replace it.

FROM THE PAST—The attic storeroom of the old Maidstone Post Office and General Store has proved to be a treasure chest of items from the past. From left, Michael Palenchar, RR 3, Maidstone, examines some of the find with his sons, Pat, 5, and Dan, 4. The building, constructed around 1850, is being demolished to make way for a new post office.

On Saturday, August 28th, Mark McGuire, son of Emmett and Rita McGuire of Maidstone left for Grafing, Germany, a suburb of Munich where he begins his second year with the Klostersee hockey team. 9/10/82

Sandwich South Township once more turns to the realm of senior county baseball following the decision of the Essex County League at Essex the past week. Roseland, top team in the North-South Essex League, was granted a franchise again in the county's senior league.

Due to ground work of the Township's sports lovers of baseball, mainly Father Jordon, Pat McCauliffe, Spin Brown, Emmett McCarthy, Frank Jobin and others this has come about.

For many years baseball carried the name of this township to all parts of Essex County, the Province of Ontario, the country at large and even parts of the United States. Baseball brought prestige and honors not only to the men who played the game but to men who worked in the organization of its clubs.

Maidstone, Oldcastle, Roseland were names throughout Ontario and the county at large.

Following the last war years the game seemed to lose interest and players have had to end up playing with outside clubs due to the lack of interest here. From reports the Roseland club will transfer its diamond to Maidstone and the club will play under the Maidstone name in the county circuit.

Maidstone was one of the best diamonds in Essex County with the exception of a short right field fence. Reports are that this will be remedied. It was a sad day that the name of Maidstone was dropped from the county franchise.

Dropping of that franchise was a drop from baseball days here in this area. Throughout the county baseball was made popular by men in the district who worked hard that today the County League is Ontario's outstanding league.

Entering of this club in the County League is only the start of greater possibilities, here in Sandwich South. Sandwich South, now growing in population, needs space for its coming generation to work and enjoy recreation. Speculation of parks within the township for future generations is a well thought of idea. Baseball has been as much a part of this township as its farms, homes, churches, roads and schools. Without play and recreation "Jack" can become a dull boy and in future, without room to play any district can become just as dull for its future generations to live in.

It carries a complete line of agricult. chemicals, including herbicides, insecticides and fungicides. Rainbow deals primarily with co-operatives and grain dealers. John Morand heads a five man staff. Every member of the crew is highly qualified for his work. The company has a fleet of custom liquid-nitrogen and bulk-dry fertilizer applicators. These can be rented by farmers. The Rainbow warehouse has a 400-ton capacity. Tanks at the site can store approximately 200 tons of liquids. Rainbow Chemicals was started in 1956 in Tilbury. In 1964 it constructed a branch office in Narrow.

Also new and a real puzzler - Persons passing through Maidstone along Highway #3 are taking a second look when they pass this peculiar looking structure at the R.C. Flood Grain & Feed Co. Although few would ever guess the fact, it's actually a corn cob incinerator. The structure was designed in the southern United States and is one of the first of its kind in Canada. There were staff Star photos covering these two new industries for Maidstone which are being filed and put in the "Industries" volume of the Tweedsmuir History of Sand. South Township.

Feb. 9, 1968, E.F.P. - We wish to send out best wishes to Mrs. Maidstone (Bernie McLean), the Maidstone Cross column reporter, who is ill in the hospital. Without Bernie's report of the social whirl of Maidstone missing in the Free Press, old Maidstone would almost go off the map. On the other hand if you have something to say that isn't a compliment to the Maidstone Shamrocks, keep it to yourself, because our fighting Irish Writer would tongue lash you worse than dad could do with the old razor strap. Best of luck, Bernie, we will say a few "Hail Mary's" or more for you and if necessary throw in a couple of good old cuss words. Written by Carson Jessop.

July 16, 1969 - Windsor Star: HISTORY TREASURES BROUGHT TO LIFE -

MAIDSTONE - Pages from the past have been opened in this village. The former post office building and general store is being demolished and the attic store room has proved to be a treasure chest full of yesteryear's mementos. The structure dates back to the early 1850's and has been a landmark in the central sector of Essex County. Articles found include old boots, shoes, hats, lamps, pictures, papers, calendars, canned goods, cracker barrels, coins and souvenirs. Many are in original cartons and most date back to the turn of the century. One box is full of bales of weaving cotton similar to the type used for spinning wheels.

Most coins are in perfect condition. Workmen have picked up several which date back to the mid-1800's and continue to find others as they go about clearing the site. One of the most interesting finds is a Boyds Battery Medal. It was made in London, England, in January, 1878.

Michael Palenchar, R. R. 3, Maidstone, an amateur antique collector, feels the find is one of the most interesting in the area. He says it gives us an important insight into the life in the village during the latter part of the last century. The general store was closed several years ago, but the post office has carried on until the past month. The new $30,000.00 structure is on a new site adjoining the old one, south of it, where Peter Sullivan's Hotel and General store used to stand.

$100,000 fire razes mill

THE WINDSOR STAR, NOVEMBER 7, 1967

R. C. Flood facilities destroyed

Firemen battle 'mass of flame' 200 feet high

By MIKE KEATING

Firemen are combing the smoking ruins seeking the cause of a $100,000 blaze that levelled a Maidstone-area grain mill early today.

Over 20 firefighters fought a 200-foot-high wall of fire as the R. C. Flood Grain Co. Ltd. mill on Hwy. 3 burned to the ground.

Sandwich South Fire Chief William Mogyorody said the frame and sheet metal building was "a mass of flames" when pumpers arrived about midnight.

Firefighters saved the office long enough for owner James Flood to rescue the records. They kept the fire from destroying a nearby house-restaurant and some small buildings.

Flames on wooden poles carrying high tension wires were put out and power was not interrupted. The large grain elevator a few hundred feet from the mill was not threatened.

Provincial police, who are also investigating the fire said Mr. Flood saw no traces of fire when he was at the office about 10 p.m.

The building burned to the ground in less than two hours.

Six vehicles were sent by Essex, Maidstone, Sandwich West, Sandwich South and Anderdon forces.

They drew water from tank trucks and a nearby well.

Police said the fire apparently started in the west section of the building. A police spokesman said there is no suspicion of arson.

The mill was emptied of grain last week.

A fire destroyed a mill on the same site in 1933.

Chief Mogyorody said a dairy truck, hit by a train at a level crossing beside the mill this spring, landed in flames against a storage bin and nearly set the area ablaze.

The 225 by 40-foot mill was valued by its owner at about $80,000 and the contents—mostly machinery—at $20,000.

July 18, 1969 - The Windsor Star: - R. C. Flood Grain Company, Maidstone, has expanded and updated its facilities during the past year. It has constructed a new grain elevator and increased productivity in other sections of its operations.

The company is a perfect example of compactness plus productivity. Its aim is to give the "best possible service". This is especially evident during the fall harvests. By having one plant available for soyabeans and a second for corn, the firm is able to handle thousands of bushels of grain each day, thus allowing the farmer to harvest his crop more quickly and lessen his risk of weather damage.

Company president James Flood has said modern methods of crop harvesting will not permit his firm to stand still and has pledged to offer customers "a continued program of improved facilities."

Police believe Patterson was shot to death on the first floor of this Caron Avenue house

Walter O'Neil, 20, discovered the body on his father's farm

SLAYING LINKED TO DRUG PUSHING

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of a Windsor man in connection with the slaying of a Detroit resident. Police suspect the shooting death is linked to drug trafficking. The body with three bullet holes in the torso, was discovered shortly before noon Thursday in the back seat of a late model Cadillac in a cornfield in Sandwich South Township. The victim has been identified as Paul J. Patterson, 50, of Algonquin St., Detroit. Police said he was shot with a handgun. Detroit Police said Patterson had an extensive criminal record but no convictions in connection with narcotics.

They said his record dates back to 1939 and includes such offences as statutory rape, obscene conduct, burglary and grand larceny, parole violation, and break and enter of dwellings. Insp. John Williamson, head of the criminal investigation branch of city police, said a charge of murder has been laid against the man being sought. Police departments across Canada have been asked to assist Windsor Police in the search for the suspect. The man's name has not been released, officially because of the nature of the investigation. Police sources indicated the murder might be the result of a dispute over narcotics. The two-tone blue Cadillac with Michigan licence plates, had been ransacked in a manner which would indicate an intensive search. Windsor Police Chief Gordon Preston said police believe the victim, was shot about 3 a.m. Thursday in a ground-floor apartment of a two-story house at 534 Caron Ave. Police got a tip about noon and then visited three residences in the city's core area. Several persons were questioned and as a result detectives had "information at this stage that there could be a body (somewhere)," said Chief Preston.

Essex O.P.P. informed city police about 1 p.m. that they had found the body in the Cadillac. City police using a photograph, tentatively identified the victim as being the same man who was reportedly shot in the Caron Ave. apartment. Police withheld identification until they could find relatives for positive identification. "He was a Detroit resident but a frequent visitor to Windsor," said Chief Preston. An RCMP source said the Caron Ave. residence was the site of a police drug raid more than a year ago. He said the residence hasn't been visited recently but at the time of the raid it looked like a "hippy-type pad," Chief Preston said police received information that three shots were fired in the residence. He agreed it was "very, very strange" that people in the area didn't call police about shots being fired over night. Suburban Ambulance took the body to Metropolitan Hospital where a post mortem was done. The Coroner was Dr. J.M. Schulte.

The body was discovered by 20 year old Walter O'Neil shortly before noon as he was driving cows back from a neighbor's property onto his father's farm. Mr. O'Neil said he was badly shaken by what he saw; "I'd never seen a body before.... It was pretty sickening." He first saw the car about 11.30 a.m. on his way to get the cows but thought it was being used by a hunter or someone out target shooting. On the way back, he investigated, climbed over the fence, and saw the body in the back of the car. "I started running through the mud, a little on the scared side ... I thought I might get shot." He said the body was on the floor in the back "bent over with the head towards the trunk." The victim was dressed in old khaki pants and a heavy gold sweater pulled up from the waist. There was blood on the right shoulder. "I only got a side view of him so I could not tell if there had been much violence. There was mud on him, and all inside the car, and the car was a shambles," said O'Neil. He said he found a wooden mallet "like judges use" in the mud between the car and the fence. It was about a foot long and he estimated its weight at half a pound. The car's interior was heavily damaged. There was a large hole in the front window on the passenger's side and the windshield had been shattered. The hood and the trunk were open and the engine had been damaged. The battery caps were off, and wiring had been torn loose and hubcaps had been taken off," he said.

On the other side of the car he saw a wallet, and a pair of boots in the mud near the driver's door. A mud-covered lightweight green blanket was nearby. Police suggested the blanket might have been used to carry the victim to the car.

Mr. O'Neil called Essex OPP and police were there within a matter of minutes as the station is only three miles from the scene. Police said the Cadillac must have been driven down the 12th concession of Sandwich South Township towards Highway 401 where it ends and was then driven into the cornfield. When police arrived the car was sunk in deep mud about 100 yards from the concession road. Concession 12 which runs along Pike Creek, is often used as a lovers' lane, a dumping ground for garbage, and illegal hunting.

WORST STORM OF THE WINTER HITS AREA OVER THE WEEKEND

In times of hardship, people often pull together to make life more pleasant.

People like James Heath, a Windsor ambulance driver who took in a family of four this weekend after answering a call to an accident in which they had been involved Friday.

Mr. Heath was trying to get his ambulance back to Windsor in the midst of Friday's storm when he came upon Mr. and Mrs. Ted Barker and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Middleton, all of Kingston. The family was returning from Florida when it became involved in an accident on the Highway 401.

The family was only shaken up in the accident but had no place to stay, so Mr. Heath volunteered his home.

"He's one of those guys who just can't do enough for you," Mr. Barker said. "We've been treated like kings. I've never met anyone like him."

Mr. Heath said he has enjoyed having the family as unexpected guests and has made "some wonderful friends."

The family planned to return to Kingston today.

And then there are people like Raymond Deschamps, proprietor of the Cozy Corners Restaurant near Maidstone and his neighbor, Rev. Glenn Brown, pastor of Maidstone United Church.

Mr. Deschamps found his restaurant filling up rapidly as more and more passing motorists became stuck in drifting snow Friday.

By the end of the night, he had taken in a couple and their two small children and helped bed down another 15 people in the neighboring church.

And throughout the night he provided hamburgers and coffee for the people in the church and at an OPP station about a mile down the road.

Mr. Brown said he didn't know people were staying in the church until he saw the lights on from his house across the street.

After discovering the stranded travellers, he and his wife supplied blankets, games, cards and coffee in order to make the stay easier.

"They had a great old time over there," he said. "Once they found the bathrooms and got talking they were pretty happy."

April 24, 1968, The Windsor Star: A $4,000 head-on crash put one Maidstone area woman in hospital while five other persons escaped with minor injuries.

Mrs. Elrose Deehan, 21, of R. R. 3, Maidstone escaped with a fractured wrist. She was reported in goof condition in Metropolitan Hospital this morning. Her passengers, Rosemary Deehan, 10, Mark Reaume, 3, and Tracey Reaume, 1, were treated for minor injuries and released. Driver of the second car, James Woltz, 43, also of R. R. 3, Maidstone and his passenger, Kelly Woltz, had minor injuries. Mrs. Deehan escaped further injury when the ambulance she was riding in was in collision with a car at Walker Road and E.C. Row Ave., about 5.15 p.m. The 1967 Pontiac ABC Ambulance driven by Gary Drouillard, 24, of 445 Glengarry Ave., received an estimated $1,000 damage to the driver's door and left front fender.

How to own a houseboat by really trying

THE ESSEX TIMES, MAY 4, 1972.

WAY DOWN UPON THE DETROIT RIVER. Ralph Cooper and Robert Walker at the door of their home-made house boat.

Freeze all winter to float all summer

"A lot of guys said we were crazy when we worked in the cold but we knew it would be worthwhile," Ralph Cooper commented about the hours he and Robert Walker spent making their house boat this past winter.

It was February before the two Chrysler employees really started their project but it was last summer's experiences on an open pontoon boat that sparked their decision.

"We decided we wanted it closed. If it rained you had to head for shore. If you decided to stay out at night it was damp with all the dew and we wanted to be able to stay on it for weekends," Ralph explained.

Ralph and Rob lived as boys in the Essex area and attended Essex and Maidstone schools.

The two of them tackled everything for themselves. They used the original boat, and began by drawing plans in the search for the best lay-out. They've done a professional job too, with the wiring all concealed, controlled from the steering panel but with individually controlled lights over each bunk. There are 2 bunks, each with its own sliding window; a padded seat wide enough to sleep one, that opens when needed for two. They can even accommodate six by dropping down the table and folding out the benches to make another double bunk.

With a two burner propane gas stove and a sink storage cupboards under the bunks and little cupboards in all available upper space, they are prepared to live there for the summer. They have provided everything necessary for good boating, including an exhaust fan for the miniature kitchen area and the required five gallon holding tank. It is insulated for summer comfort.

They built the frame of 1" square steel tubing in the garage. Rob had a knowledge of welding but everything was done together. Once the frame was made work began outside.

The outside is covered with aspenite. This was applied and painted during the cold months. "We would have to come inside and warm the paint every so often because it would be so thick in the cold," Rob said.

He went on to tell how they were able to work only fifteen minutes at a time because their fingers would be so cold. "Some days during the winter we had to sweep snow off it so we could work on it," Ralph added.

The upper sundeck is 18' x

18', the sundeck in front of the 16' x 18' cabin is 7' x 8'. The total length is 30 feet.

The finished boat has two built in gas tanks of 10 gallon capacity. It is built on 3, nine inch diameter aluminum pontoons that are filled with styrofoam. With and eighteen inch draft, they figure it should run in a minimum of two feet of water. It is powered by two 50 horsepower outboard motors, each with its own battery. Depending on the wind and current resistance, they average about 5 miles to the gallon of gas. The boat weighs 3,000 pounds and runs about 18 knots, "that's 25 miles per hour," Ralph explained.

Ralph and Rob figure it cost them $3,000, and they estimated its value at more than double that. They kept close account of their expenses, but Rob commented, "maybe we should add a hundred dollars for gas running around hunting for bargains. We put more into it than we originally planned but we wanted to make it attractive. It was more Ralph's ideas than mine on how to fix things inside. He drew the plans."

"We did everything ourselves," Rob said, "we made our own deck rail and ladder out of half inch round stock steel. We made our own stereo systems out of radio, a few switches and odds and ends. We have a small television that runs on its own batteries.

The two men emphasized that they kept everything as inexpensive as possible but at the same time always keeping in mind durability and attractiveness. Gay red curtains that matched the red ozite carpeting carried out the red, black and gold color scheme.

"We wanted it blue," Rob laughed, "but we found carpets remnants in red. We shopped around to get things on special sales." That covered the aluminum sliding windows, bought in the off-season for less than half price, the mahogany paneling inside, the carpeting, and even a donated aluminum door which they cut down to correct size and fitted with plexiglass.

He added, "All the hard work in the cold weather was worth it when we put it in the water yesterday."

Without the cooperation of the people here at Edgewater Marine we could never have done it," they both agreed. "They let us dock here all winter and gave us advice and help. They have been really good to us." It took them about three months working after shop hours and on weekends. All Going to the bus waiting room you saw the other side of people, just sitting watching the crowds, with no other place to go. The platform outside crowded with travelling people, waiting for the bus east, to take them either home or on a vacation. That day the afternoon bus left in three sections, all crowded. Down-town was over crowded with the annual summer side walk sale. Photographers were there too, taking pictures and talking to people who were boarding the buses, about how and why they were there, as the C.N.R. was on strike in Windsor and vicinity."

Living Rosary . . .

THE ESSEX FREE PRESS, MAY 30, 1975

STUDENTS WORSHIP — Students of St. Mary's School, in Maidstone, formed a living rosary during a service of worship of Mary. Sister Bernice prepared the service. She reported her idea of a living rosary was not a new one but one that has not been carried out for many years. Students formed a huge circle on the lawn by the church while in the centre these children made the form of the cross facing the statue of Mary among a bank of flowers. The service was conducted by Father Marentette.

The Living Rosary - Held at St. Mary's School on Friday afternoon at 1:30. It was held on the front lawn. The Grade VIII students each represented a bead with 4 younger students to help. Jim Hayes, an eight grade student crowned the Blessed Virgin. Linda Mills carried the flower-crown on a white satin pillow, to the flower bedecked altar. Diane Lafferty, a grade VII student gave the speech on the Living Rosary. A singing group consisting of Yvonne Lajole, the kindergarten teacher, Linda Mills, Jo-Anne Quinlan, Richard Gauvin, Leon Nussio led the songs in the middle of the Rosary. Father Marentette said the Creed and gave a Homily during the gathering. It turned out to be a beautiful event thanks to the Organization of Sister Bernice, the Remedial Teacher, Mr. Dwyer, director of Education for Separate School Board was present for the event and spoke highly of the occasion, Linda Mills.

All the children in St. Mary's School in Maidstone participated in a drive to help needy families. Four classes adopted a family and collected articles and food, while the other classes added to it. OLD HOUSE COMES DOWN . . . AUGUST 10, 1973

ESSEX FREE PRESS - EVELYN WALKER

The home built by Charles Little on the homestead of three generations of the Little family is now being torn down because restoration costs were prohibitive.

After standing for almost a century, the red brick home that was the pride and joy of Charles Little is being torn down, piece by piece and with great reluctance. The house is one of the landmarks of a settlement that began before Essex was established and which has slowly disappeared. Its builder operated a saw mill on the property and built a number of houses these for the use of his employees. These homes were moved away, one by one.

Ernest Ernestson of Essex recently bought the property with the hope of restoring the house. Much-needed but inflexible laws to control urban sprawl, stood in his way. The best Mr. Ernestson could do was to preserve its history. For two weeks he searched for deeds and documents covering the property.

He learned that the land was deeded by the crown to Robert Robertson in 1847 on September 18. The deed reads, "commencing where a post has been planted at the south side of the Talbot Road West at the East angle of the said lot, then N. 61, W 31 chains 20 links, more or less, to where a post has been planted, - - - and so on around the boundary.

Deed #3439 on the 25th of November 1848 indicates that Richard and Elizabeth Lawson became the next owners. They sold it exactly three years later to Lindsay Little for twenty-five pounds. It remained in the Little family for 81 years, through 3 generations.

Lindsay Little lived in several areas in Essex County after coming here first from Ireland and then United States. He married Eliza McNattan the same year he bought the property that became the homestead. His first wife had died previously, leaving him with five children.

In April of 1857, the ownership of the property was transferred to his son Charles for 125 pounds. He married Elizabeth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Roblnsen, a daughter of the first Mullin, of Maidstone, received family of Essex. The frame home was replaced by the fine brick structure in 1880. A two story porch on the main part and a verandah along the one story section added to the attractive appearance. A winmill stood near the back door.

Of the nine children born to the couple, two sons died as youths. George was almost 18 when he drowned in one of the mill ponds on his father's property. Robert died at 16. Of the six sons and three daughters, one boy and girl were twins.

Charles Little, a talented and prosperous business man spent 15 years as a butcher and delivered meat on a route to the householders in Essex, other towns and surrounding countryside. He was a merchant as well as a saw mill operator and he bought 80 acres of surrounding land, plus property in other municipalities. He was the same Charles Little who owned and operated a hotel at various times in Maidstone Cross, as reported previously. Two of the mill ponds still remain on the land where the house was located. It is recorded, "His home farm is conceded to be one of the finest in this section, well located, capably managed."

At his death in 1906 the property was bequeathed to his son John, who made his home there until July 1932 when he and his wife Nettie sold to Lester and Bertha Cousins, who in 1940 traded properties with Albert and Harriet West. Mr. West left the home to his daughters, Mrs. Eva Pomeroy, the last owner before Mr. Ernestson. And so by strange co-incidence the property first owned by Robert Robertson, now belongs to Ernest Ernestson.

During the months when it recently sat uninhabited, with a gaping hole in its side, where bricks had fallen away, the curious and the antique collectors found it was filled with valuable antique furniture. By the time Mr. Ernestson took possession, only one heavy cabinet remained. Even the knobs had been picked off the doors.

Mr. Ernestson began his bid to restore the fine brick structure. He applied for permission to divide the house into three small apartments for single occupancy but the Department of Municipal Affairs refused to allow that. He tried again to make it a two family home but rural property is now strictly controlled and he was again refused permission. The foundation was crumbling so his next move was to calculate the cost of building a new foundation. At $7000 he realized it was an impractical dream so regretfully he lifted his hammer and crowbar to the task of tearing away the brick, the 1" sheathing of boards 16" to 20" wide, the more than 2000 bricks in the fireplace, the lathe and plaster.

But he'll preserve some of it. The smaller one storey wing will be a home for Mr. Ernestson.

Sandwich South's new Park was named McAuliffe Park, for Pat McAuliffe for his work done for baseball for years in Maidstone and particularly the Shamrocks. The write up never mentioned Maidstone as Pat was married last fall and is now living in his wife's lovely home in Belle River. Pat and his wife lived in Florida for the winter. The McAuliffe name is also remembered by we oldsters as Pat's father James Sr. was Treasurer for years and his uncle John A. McAuliffe Sr. was Clerk for many years for Sandwich South Township. And now our Deputy-Reeve is John M. McAuliffe so the Park bears a highly respected name. Even back in the Toll gate era of fame his grandfather Patrick "Paddy" McAuliffe was Toll-gate keeper at Maidstone Cross.

Paul McAuliffe was brought home from Hotel Dieu last week after receiving treatments for 12 weeks for a badly broken knee-cap, when he fell on an icy spot on Jan. 28th. Paul will be walking with a cane while he convalesces. APR-21, 1972

Word has been received from Bill Mogyorody that Stan Holden has had a bout of illness down at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. From reports Stan had to even cancel his New Year's celebrating. Now if our Stan is ill we wish him the best and if its cheering up he needs, we will send him a shot of Essex County brisk air and a few snowballs to boot.

Bill Mogyorody our eminent fire chief and family have returned from a short jaunt to the land of smiles and honey lamb. Bill claims the Glen Webster's, Fred Paquette's and Holden's are all camped close to one another.

Then farmers sure like to bunch up for protection don't they. Wonder if they ever think of us other peasants back in the Sunshine belt or if they think belt is just that Florida fruit juice tucked in the frig.

Dec. 6, 1974- EFP.- Several members of the Essex Es-Ski Mo's snowmobile club worked around the clock with the PPO evacuating motorists stalled and from disabled autos in Sunday's near record snow fall. All arteries were checked and all cars checked to see if any occupants were inside. There were 160 people taken to 401 station and 300 taken to Maidstone Central School. Approx. 60 snowmobiles from the area club patrolled the impassable roads. More than one police officer was overheard in saying, "we would have been in deep trouble without them". This near record snowfall definitely shows the need for these type of vehicles.

Dec. 13, 1974, EFP: A THANK YOU: The officers of the Essex Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police would like to publicly thank all those who in any way assisted in the rescue of hundreds of stranded persons during the snow storm of December 2nd, and 3rd.

Many helpless women and children were removed from the snow bound roads by unselfish residents operating snow machines, farm tractors and four-wheeled vehicles. Hundreds of persons found temporary shelter at our O.P.P. Detachment, the Maidstone Central School and the Maidstone Township Buildings. A special thank you to those who opened their own homes to the strangers in need.

Dec. 27, 1975, Windsor Star - Many Windsor residents received surprises over the holidays, but probably none was as shocking as the surprise awaiting Beverly Emond and her family today.

While the family was out an overheated electric space heater set fire to the home on Highway 3 near Maidstone, causing some structural damage and more than $10,000 in smoke and water damage. Sandwich South Township Firemen received the alarm about 9.30 p.m. Friday and had the fire under control in about 30 minutes although water assistance was required from the Sandwich West fire dept. There were some presents still under the tree that received water and smoke damage, said Capt. Paul Laforet of the Sandwich South Fire Dept. The heater was being used to keep the water system from freezing. By early Sunday morning, the family still had not returned.

CONSIDER EXTENDED CARE. Mrs. M.J. Ryckman, manager of the Essex Nursing Home, Miss Helen Gentles, Continuity of Care Co-ordinator for the Extended Health Care Program and Mrs. Georgina Woltz, president of the Essex Auxiliary for Senior Citizens, discuss plans of the health care program as it concerns nursing homes. Mrs. Woltz in the above picture resides in Maidstone. January 25, 1973, Essex Times.

Volunteer work praised

Miss Helen Gentles, who is Continuity of Care Co-ordinator of the Extended Health Care Program explained their purposes to the members of the Essex Auxiliary for Senior Citizens. Miss Gentles explained the eligibility of patients for nursing care in the various nursing homes. An objective of the program is to move patients from hospital beds when they no longer require hospital care. A patient who requires 1 to 2 1/2 hours of care daily can receive adequate care in a nursing home and under government medical plans this channeling of patients into the less expensive nursing home care will help to check the rising cost of medicine premiums. The government subsidy for nursing home care is $9. per day.

In closing her informative talk, Miss Gentles complimented the group on their work among the elderly and shut-in saying "Small towns must be famous for the volunteer work they do for nursing home patients," and further added that, "We are all going to be old sometime and what is done now will govern conditions of care when we are old."

Mrs. Margaret Calhoun and Mrs. Georgina Woltz thanked the speaker for her information.

It was decided to purchase a wheel chair as the property of the Essex Nursing Home, and to buy new underwear to be available to patients. Plans were set for a Fashion Show to be held March 13 at 7:30 at Maplewood School with a charge of $1. per person.

During the past year the auxiliary purchased for the use of the residents two park chairs, a wall clock, piano light, and took them on a picnic to Gesstwood. Mrs. Parkinson teaches crafts and many of the residents had a part in the fall bazaar of crafts and bake sale.

Further assistance is provided by a visit from Salvation Army members every Wednesday and one Sunday each month; Mrs. Rousseau who plays the piano; and by the Essex Baptist Church members and choir conducting a service every Sunday.

Nov. 29th, 1974 - Dr. M. R. McGavin and Mrs. McGavin (Mary T. Halford, R.N.) of Riverside Dr., Tecumseh, wish to thank their many friends who remembered them on the occasion of their marriage on October 28th, 1973, with cards and good wishes, that made them happy and appreciative of the kindnesses. They have returned from a honeymoon in Mexico.

- Relatives and family of Richard Charles McLean (grandson of Mrs. Burnie McLean) thanked God and were relieved when the news came that Richard had survived 48 hours of the cold weather of Northern Ontario. He was admitted to a St. Ignace Hospital, Michigan, with frozen feet, numerous abrasions and nervous exhaustion. His parents John & Shirley McLean of East Detroit, drove up Saturday morning and were able to bring Richard home with them on Sunday. So the Deer Hunting did not end so well.

- Mrs. Jajles (Louise) Halford was pleasantly surprised on Thursday (American Thanksgiving) when her sisters Mary and Agnes and their children and grandchildren arrived, with all of the Thanksgiving Dinner and trimmings to spend a happy day together. Louise's neice, Marilyn Barr of Howell, Mich. was unable to come, as she is in St. Jodeph's Hospital, Ann Arbor with her leg in traction, after she was thrown from her horse and suffered a broken hip.

- Mr. & Mrs. Leonard J. McCarthy entertained with an American Thanksgiving Feast with both their mothers present. Mrs. (Grace) Andrew McCarthy and Mrs. Dan J. McLean. Mrs. Mrs. Grace McCarthy had recovered enough from her seven weeks illness to be out again.

- It was a Winter Wonderland on Monday morning, Dec. 2nd., after an all-day Sunday snowstorm. It was a beautiful sight but took many snow ploughs to open the roads and many hours of shovelling to get back to normal.

June 27, 1971 - David Arthur Shuttleworth graduated from St. Clair College in Electronic Technology.

Blue jeans, ball cap. Could the thumb in the mouth be a bunt signal?

THE WINDSOR STAR, JUNE 15, 1974

Brinkman to Sutherland...to Doris?

By MARK BONOKOSKI

In this case, the babe wasn't named Ruth.

Mind you, grandpa had his aspirations. . . after rearing seven daughters and only one son. . . that Bernard Jr. would have that certain genetic quality to produce an offspring who would naturally reach for a baseball bat rather than a Barbie doll.

But the Head Umpire of Life decided to toss Bernard Jr. a strike.

Babe Ruth turned out to be a baby named Doris. . . one month and nine pounds of female. . . (the Collins family of Maidstone having that certain affinity for the dis-taff side).

But, there she was, only moments after being christened Doris (after mother's mom), Neva (after father's mom), Marie ("just to round things off") Collins, the tiny, young lady found herself garbed in blue jeans, sneakers, a T-shirt, and a denim (. . . Hit that ball, Willie!) baseball cap.

Grandpa would have wanted it that way.

You see, Bernard Collins Sr. wanted a grandson to carry on the Collins name and Bernard Jr., obviously, was the only hope.

Said mother Brenda shortly before the christening following Sunday mass at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Maidstone:

"No way did he want his grandson baptized in a dress. It would be blue jeans and sneakers, nothing else."

But, Grandpa Collins never had the opportunity to see his grandchild baptized.

At the age of 66, only 19 days before the birth of little Doris Collins, Mr. Bernard died.

The little-boy-cum-baseball-star uniform was a toast to Grandpa.

Christened in a dress. . . (like a little girl should) by her grandfather's second cousin, Rev. Timothy (Father Tim) Kavanagh, a Guam missionary of 27 years now on a Canadian summer vacation, she was carried to her home across the street from the church to be slipped into something more comfortable. Naturally, blue jeans and a T-shirt.

Fortunately, godmother Joan Malenfant of MacGregor, pinch hitting as a seamstress, was prepared for what was bound to happen.

July 14, 1973, The Windsor Star: An explosion and fire rocked Superior Propane, Ltd's facilities on Highway 3 near Maidstone on Friday, sending an employee to hospital with 15 per cent burns. Roger Kniffen, 29, of Essex, is in fair condition at the burns unit of Metropolitan Hospital with burns about the face, neck and arms.

Damage was estimated at about $10,000 by Sandwich South Fire Chief Frank Nostadt. A wooden loading platform, a 15 ft. square building used for filling propane tanks and a delivery truck were destroyed, while another truck was damaged.

Bill Hogan, the company's branch manager, said Mr. Kniffen had been in the metal building filling propane cylinders when the fire started. It was reported shortly before 2 p.m. Cause of the fire is under investigation by Inspector Donald Campbell of the Ontario Fire Marshall's Office. The potential of the fire was described as very, very dangerous by Chief Nostadt. A huge 12,000 gallon propane storage tank used to feed the smaller tanks was only a few yards from the scene of the fire, and the west end of the large tank was scorched.

Chief Nostadt said the direction of the strong winds out of the southwest Friday, helped keep the fire from the large tank. Mr. Hogan, however, said the risk of explosion involving the storage tank was quite small. He explained it was equipped with a relief valve and the propane in it would probably have burned off. He said the tank was at least half full.

The manager said he had been in the office building at the front of the company's property when Mr. Kniffen raced up, with burned arms, and shouted a warning about the fire. Mr. Hogan said he believed only two cylinders exploded and the rest burned off when relief valves reached the propane.

Ontario Provincial Police cordoned off an area around the Superior Propane property just in case and two ambulances were on standby. Sandwich South firefighters were assisted by men and equipment from the Anderton Fire Department. There were reports that the explosion was heard all the way to the town of Essex. Judy Stowe, secretary at the Superior Propane office said that as firemen hosed down the area and started to clean up, remarked "It's a scary experience and I think I'm going to go home!"

May 25, 1976 - Headline of the Windsor Star reads: "SINGER RECORDS TRIBUTE."

In keeping with the tradition of honouring Christ's Mother during the Month of May, Mrs. Irene Mary Mullin of Highway #114, Maidstone has cut a record of hymns appropriate to the month.

"I wanted to give God's mother this small tribute for the month that is set aside by our Church to honour Mary," said Irene - a devout Catholic. The record is a collection of vocal solos, sang to the accompaniment, by her daughter Marie, of the organ at their church, St. Mary's of Maidstone. They are the hymns that draw a response from all who are familiar with the Roman Catholic Service, sung either in honour of Mary or during worship. Many are known universally, such as Ave Maria.

Although she is offering the record for sale, Irene says, "I didn't see a dollar sign, just the spiritual value of the whole thing."

Friends and family have urged her for many years to make a recording of her solos, as they have heard them in the church Choir. But the idea never appealed to her, until she thought the May hymns would make her talents a tribute to Mary. Then, she asked her daughter who is a competent organist, to accompany her as she made the recording.

Music has always been a part of life for Irene, both in her family background and with her own seven adult children. She studied voice as a young girl and has sung in church choirs since she was 14. Musical and drama productions were part of her early experience.

Sandwich South's new Park was named McAuliffe Park, for Pat McAuliffe for his work done for baseball for years in Maidstone and particularly the Shamrocks. The write up never mentioned Maidstone as Pat was married last fall and is now living in his wife's lovely home in Belle River. Pat and his wife lived in Florida for the winter. The McAuliffe name is also remembered by we oldsters as Pat's father James Sr. was Treasurer for years and his uncle John A. McAuliffe Sr. was Clerk for many years for Sandwich South Township. And now our Deputy-Reeve is John M. McAuliffe so the Park bears a highly respected name. Even back in the Toll gate era of fame his grandfather Patrick "Paddy" McAuliffe was Toll-gate keeper at Maidstone Cross.

Paul McAuliffe was brought home from Hotel Dieu last week after receiving treatments for 12 weeks for a badly broken knee-cap, when he fell on an icy spot on Jan. 28th. Paul will be walking with a cane while he convalesces. APR. 21, 1972

These projects are under the direction of the Holy Ghost Fathers, an Order of Irish Priests directly from Ireland, but with Canadian Headquarters in Toronto. In this way she will be doing her share to improve health conditions for God's poor in the world. This is a sixteen to eighteen thousand mile journey, half way around the world, accomplished in hours. It took our grandfathers weeks and months to cross the briny ocean. What a contrast! Mrs. Tom (Margaret) Barry of Hwy 98 is Maureen's grandmother and we all join in prayers with her to wish her countless Blessings in her charitable work so far from her loved ones and home.

North Battleford Welcomes

New Neighbours...

BY JOCELYN ROY

of The News-Optimist

North Battleford needs a system of stop signs to allow for safer travel, according to new arrivals Chuck and Carolyn Doyle, who chose the city from among many communities in western Canada to make a new home.

The Doyles know a lot about city travelling.

Three and one-half months ago they packed suitcases and their two children, Carley and Dustin into the station wagon and left a century-old farm near Maidstone, Ont., to search for a new community in which to live.

CITY SELECTED

They evaluated communities along a route to Jasper and Banff national parks in Alberta and took second looks at Moose Jaw and North Battleford before they chose the latter city as their new home.

At Chamber of Commerce offices in most communities they had checked into histories and statistics. They laughingly intimated North Battleford Chamber of Commerce Commissioner Alex Balych had the best sales pitch of any commissioner.

They selected North Battleford for three reasons. Its growth potential seemed to be the highest, the landscape is attractive and it is in close proximity to larger centres like Edmonton and Saskatoon.

In the middle of December the family settled into a two-storey house at 1472-97 Street. Doyle is an accountant at McIvor Eaket MacDonald and Co. chartered accountants.

Doyle, formerly an accountant-budget analyst in General Motors of Canada Ltd. in Windsor Ont., and Mrs. Doyle, a substitute teacher at Essex District High School in Essex, Ont., decided to leave the province so "the kids could grow up in a setting where they can set their own pace."

AMERICAN PROXIMITY

Mrs. Doyle said their proximity to Detroit, Mich., had a lot to do with their decision to leave Maidstone.

She said the American city began to influence its neighbour Canadian city, Windsor, until crime and pollution were becoming more and more prevalent in southwestern Ontario.

"We were beginning to be Americans, Canadian news competed with prime time American television shows," said Doyle.

"It was a fast-pace, petty and competitive type of life and we decided to chuck it and have the right to be what we wanted to be - and we were at an age where you either do it or stay there," said his wife.

Then Doyle learned of his pending transfer to Oshawa, "which is practically a suburb of Toronto." That tied it.

He said in Ontario people are reduced to numbers and statistics. "You're number 89, move on, then we can get 90 done."

Carolyn and Chuck Doyle and their children, Carley and Dustin, are new arrivals in North Battleford from Maidstone, Ont., because they want to be. The couple selected the city from among several western Canadian communities after they decided southwestern Ontario is not the best place to raise children.

MAIDSTONE, 1957: Essex Free Press -

Maidstone has been known as the home of the Irish, home of baseball champions, etc. It is noted for its beautiful church, its mills, etc., but, it has also added another laurel.

Maidstone is the home of "Corny" Joke Champions. Margaret Collins, 12 year old daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Bernard (Bus) Collins, captured a "corny" joke win on CJSP radio, Leamington, recently. Want to know what it was?

What ticks on the wall?

"Tickle Paper - Tupid. Don't get it, eh? My but you are "Tupid".

ROSE GARDEN FREAK

Mrs. Doyle, a "rose garden freak", also enjoys reading best sellers and candle making. Doyle, who is "also big on gardening" is interested in fishing.

The Doyles said they are content and happy in North Battleford.

Doyle made the suggestion of a stop sign system to allow easier east-west, north-south travel. "As it is now you drive a block, slow down, drive a block, slow down, regardless whether you are on a street or avenue," said Mrs. Doyle.

She suggested traffic lights be erected at 11 Avenue and Railway Avenue in the city. "Have you ever tried to make a left turn onto Railway Ave.," asked Mrs. Doyle just like a true-blue native of North Battleford.

PEOPLE ARE INDIVIDUALS

Mrs. Doyle said she has noticed in the past month people here relate to other people as individuals. "Even in stores there is more of a one-to-one relationship than at home," she said.

She said half an hour after she got the phone installed here the next-door neighbour was on the phone asking her over for coffee. "This place is full of honest people, not putting on any airs or polish, just being what they are. It's quite different from where we came," she said.

Carolyn Grieve was born in Brantford, Ont. She moved with her truck-driving father, mother and eight brothers and sisters down a line of towns south and west in Ontario until the family landed in South Woodslee near Maidstone.

In grade 13 at Essex District High School she met Chuck Doyle, an only child raised on a farm near Maidstone, a small town in a township of 10,000 people.

After the death of his father, Doyle's mother became a high school teacher in Detroit, 20 miles away.

For 16 years after his father's death, Doyle worked off and on at the farm, which has a share-crop arrangement. The 100 acres of land are used to grow cash crops like field corn and soybeans. The farm also grew Green Giant sweet corn when it could get the contract.

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

Both Mr. and Mrs. Doyle attained degrees at universities.

While he was at the University of Windsor enrolled in a bachelor of commerce program, she was at the University at Western Ontario at London, Ont. taking a bachelor of arts course majoring in English and psychology.

During summers he was a "plough jock" and mechanic for The Green Giant of Canada Ltd. plant at Tecumseh and she waitressed in London and Hamilton.

Following their marriage in 1966, Mrs. Doyle transferred to the University of Windsor to complete the degree program.

That summer she took education courses at the University of Western Ontario and in the fall began a four-year job teaching English at her old high school.

After Doyle graduated from his honours course in 1968, he worked as an accountant at Canadian Bridge Ltd., the company famous for building the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel.

The couple moved to the farm, "the Doyle Inheritance", in the winter of 1969 when Doyle began working as an accountant at General Motors in Windsor.

When Dustin was one year old, Mrs. Doyle began substitute teaching and continued until the birth of Carley, a year ago. "I enjoy being in a classroom, but I also enjoy being a mother. We made the decision to have children and I want to fulfill that role. My career will follow."

The Graduation Exercises for Essex District High School was held at the High School in Essex on Sunday. Some of the graduates from this community were Nina Apanceiwiz, Cathy Bellaire, Patricia Charlton, Margaret McAuliffe, Sally McGuire, Cheryl Markham, Veronica Mogyordy, Bonnie MacKenzie, Bill Bellaire, David Belleau, Edward and Timothy Flood, Chris Halford, George Fairbairn, Paul Markham, and Randy Sexton. Hope I haven't missed anyone. 7/3/70

Oct. 22, 1976 - Maureen Barry arrived in Nairobi, the capital of Kenya, Tues. morning, Sept. 28th at 2 a.m. our time. The plane had stops in Washington, D.C., an 8 hour stop in London, England, where she changed planes, then on to Geneva, Switzerland and finally to Nairobi. She writes that Nairobi is a beautiful large city with beautiful Hotels (The Hilton) and buildings of modern design and construction. It can be compared to Toronto for size and industrial activity. Its streets are lined with banana trees, the air fragrant and sweet smelling, the temperature at time of writing, a very comfortable 70 degrees. This is a cooler temperature than one would expect in a tropical country, but it is because of the high altitude of the city. The next day, Maureen was expecting to travel by bus to Mombasa a distance of 200-300 miles. Mombasa is the second largest city in Kenya and this trip would take her within 40 miles of her final destination. Maureen's letter (aerogram) took 8 days to arrive in Windsor. Maureen is in the hands of Divine Providence so continue to offer prayers for her and her associates, as papers say a deadly disease has appeared in Kenya and attending doctors are puzzled by the symptoms.

THE WINDSOR STAR, JULY 11, 1972

Nestled away from hustle . . .

MAIDSTONE — With the Highway 3 bypass now providing a faster route to Essex its easy to miss the hamlet of Maidstone.

From the bypass, Maidstone for the eastbound traveller is two or three elevators, a large red-brick church and a cluster of houses.

The older route to Essex, North Talbot Road, is slower but more scenically rewarding with the fresh home-made bread, fresh fruit and vegetables and apple cider available from wayside stalls. A real bonus for the traveller.

Originally called Maidstone Cross, Maidstone was once on the busy stagecoach route from Leamington and Windsor and was the centre for a lucrative timber trade. Over the years it had several sawmills, a carriage making shop, blacksmith and hotel.

Today Maidstone has a general store, grist mill, feed grain mill, a new telephone exchange building, post office, a propane supply and chemical supply outlets. It boasts one of the most modern baseball parks in the county and the local Shamrock baseball club has won many championships.

The large red-brick St. Mary's Church is a dominant feature of the local landscape and nearby parish hall is used for community events. To the east of the church is St. Mary's Separate School.

July 2, 1982 - E.F.P. - Sisters Agatha & Adelaine enjoyed the special mass and reception in their honour on Sunday. The choir under the direction of Tim Hebert sang many of the favourite hymns that the sisters had requested. Coffee and dessert were served in the hall following mass where the sisters greeted many old friends. On June 19th, Sister Agatha & Adelaide celebrated their golden jubilee as Sisters of Mt. St. Joseph at Mt. St. Joseph in London with mass and reception. Many relatives and friends travelled to London for the celebration. The sisters were pleased to be honoured again in their home parish. In the afternoon a Halford family picnic was held at St. Mary's Park. Reminiscences were exchanged as people leafed through albums containing pictures of ancestors and old homesteads. They were able to learn more about their ancestry from the large charts displayed on the walls of the hall. Children enjoyed finding their places on these family trees. It was a real homecoming for people who travelled from distant points in Ontario, Michigan and New Jersey. Sisters extend their thanks to all who made the day such a success.

Frank Lafferty of Maidstone and his high-powered hobby

Frank Lafferty's found My Way is the only way

By Paul Delean
Star Staff Reporter

When he switches on My Way, Frank Lafferty hears the sweet sound of success. The rest of us hear the roar of a high-powered tractor engine.

My Way is the name of Lafferty's competition tractor, a 1974 John Deere model that he's "modified" to about 1500-hp from its original 125-hp.

The 46-year-old farmer from Maidstone has entered My Way in several tractor pulls in Canada and the United States over the last six years, winning cases full of trophies.

The duo was in action again Saturday at one of the continent's largest indoor competitions in the Pontiac Silverdome. Before 15,000 people, they took third in a field of 20 in the 9,500-pound class. Not a win, but "not all that bad," considering the competition, Lafferty noted.

Last year, he finished second at the Silverdome.

"If you're in the top five in these pulls, you're not out far," he says.

Lafferty got the tractor-pull "bug" about 10 years ago. At first, he was simply an avid spectator. But in 1974, the transition was made to actual competition.

Winning a Toronto event the first year out only bolstered his enthusiasm.

Lafferty says he now competes in about 20 pulls a year, and scores upwards of six wins a season. If the rules allow it, he enters My Way in both the 9,500-lb. and 12,000-lb. classes, adapting the tractor according to meet weight requirements. His friend, Dan Hebert, sometimes shares driving duties.

Lafferty rehearsed for the Silverdome event in mid-February by taking top honors at a pull in Louisville, Ky. He also chalked up a win in his first test of the year in Toronto.

What's the secret to a winning performance? Balance, for the most part, Lafferty says.

"You have to get it just right, so that 99 per cent or more of the weight being pulled is on the back wheels. You like to have it so that the front end just periodically tests the track.

"What you do to the tractor is also important. It's not designed for what it's doing (pulling a sled weighted with perhaps 50,000 pounds). Everything is overtaxed. If it quits in front of 25,000 people, it's embarrassing.

Although Lafferty travels far and often for tractor pulls, farming still comes first.

"We don't go when there's work to be done. When there's farm work to do, we're home," says Lafferty, who grows soybean, corn and wheat on 2,500 acres near Maidstone.

He's reluctant to talk about his earnings on the tractor tour. "We're not getting rich, but it's not costing us much either."

Wheelchair-bound Judy Gould has her message painted by friend Maurie McLeod

THE WINDSOR STAR, TUESDAY, APRIL 21, 1981

A greeting card on wheels

Star Essex Bureau

MAIDSTONE — It's hard to face the world with a smile on your face from a wheelchair.

However, that's exactly what Judy Gould, who lives near this Sandwich South hamlet, does, and it's what makes her special to her friends.

Judy was a nurse in a Detroit hospital seven years ago when she was involved in a boating accident near Russell Woods, an accident doctors now believe may be responsible for the symptoms of multiple sclerosis she shows.

The debilitating syndrome started to show up about three years ago. For the past year, Judy has been confined to a wheelchair.

It hasn't stopped her from fulfilling a lifelong passion for creating greeting and stationery cards.

That passion led directly to a special chore for a longtime friend, Maurie McLeod, who lives across the road.

McLeod, who among other things is a freelance commercial artist, decided recently that Judy's wheelchair needed some "work" done on it.

The back of the chair now sports a spray of acrylic paint flowers and butterflies, something that's made her

"the hit of the therapy class," Judy said.

The painting took only a few hours, said McLeod, and the acrylic paint she used shouldn't dry out or crack.

I hope the idea is contagious," she laughed. "Everyone in a wheelchair could have a personalized picture done for them."

McLeod, who also painted the cartoon mural in the children's ward at Metropolitan Hospital, said the back of the wheelchairs could then be as personalized as T-shirts.

"Judy is great, a good friend," she said. "And I want my friends to ride around in style — first class."

Sept. 10, 1982, E.F.P. — "Dutchy" retired from General Motors last week. Ted "Dutchy" VanderAa was honoured at a party August 31st., 1982, to celebrate his retirement after 30 years with GM. His family presented him with gifts and best wishes for a happy retirement. Ted and Monica (Collin) began their retirement plans with a trip north to the Agawa Canyon along with neighbors and fellow retiree, Iris and Mike Collins. They report the fall colours in Northern Michigan and the Agawa Canyon region are just beautiful and two weeks ahead of their time. Looka like an early winter.

July 9th, 1982: From files of E.F.P. 30 years ago, 1952, the Greyhound bus fares to Rodeland were .15¢; Oldcastle 30¢; Maidstone .35¢; Six Corners .25¢; London $3.15; Toronto $6.20 and Niagara Falls $6.40.

July 9th, 1982, E.F.P. files 40 years ago in 1942: Canadians were rationed to one-half their usual tea and three-quarters their normal coffee consumption and sugar was reduced to one-half pound per person per week.

The Bob Lemmons grow sunflowers to attract birds to their Maidstone Township home. This year they seem to have stumbled on a hybrid that should attract scientists. Instead of one bloom, the plant is loaded with flowers, 44 of them at the last count and more coming. It seems there is a flower from every stem joint, says Arlene, who displays the biggest seed head. The plant grew from seed thrown out last winter from their 1980 harvest, all from single-headed plants. Another plant from those seeds has multiple blooms and one has produced a head of 24 inch diameter.

Several area couples attended the McGarrigle Sisters' concert in Leamington last Thursday. The concert was sponsored by the French TV station, CBEF to celebrate the extension of their CBC radio affiliate to Leamington. The McGarrigle sisters are the daughter of French and Irish parents from Quebec who entertain delightfully in both languages. Local fiddler, Paul Lachance of Tecumseh, accompanied by Laurette St. Antoine opened the program with a selection of tunes that made him a top fiddler in the Belle River contest recently. Rapeseed Dumped On Bypass

Eighty-five tons of rapeseed meal dumped from a tandem trailer effectively closing the north lane of highway #3 by-pass Monday, August 17th.

The load flipped as driver Rick Teskey of Essex turned from the by-pass to Talbot Road. He is in Metropolitan Hospital with a broken leg.

The truck owned by Ineson Transport of R.R. 1 Staples, was taking the load from Maple Leaf Mills in Windsor to a feed store in Elmira.

Police said the accident occurred just after noon as Teskey attempted to make the turn. The trailer and its load dropped squarely on the highway, forcing Windsor-bound traffic to detour by Talbot Road through Maidstone.

Anniversary wishes to Marjorie and Ken McKenzie who celebrated their 40th on July 31st. Other recent anniversaries include Jane and Bob Croft on July 25th, Gary and Elaine Deehan, August 13th, and Terry and MAIDSTONE — The village of Maidstone was once a bustling business centre, the nucleus for several farming families in Maidstone and Sandwich South townships. Today it is a quiet hamlet, four miles west of Essex and ten miles east of Windsor, with a church, school, park, and post office, and far removed from the days of yore.

But many of its 450 residents today carry Irish names and memories of the hamlet's early immigrants who came to the area in the 1800's to escape starvation in the Irish potato famine.

In 1823, the settlers cleared an area, built a log church, and called it St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church.

Most residents in the area were farmers, and would travel to and from Windsor via the Windsor, Essex, Lakeshore Electric Railway. The farmers' wives would bring their goods to the Windsor market, stabling their horses in a shed behind the old post office.

In 1833, Joseph Bennett named the town after Maidstone, Eng.

St. Mary's was rebuilt in 1844 on Middle Road (now called Highway 98), and in 1874 it was built, and remains today, on the old Talbot Road, or Highway 3.

The old Ford car shown in this picture was owned by John P. Daniher and driven by his son Orville, age 13-14 yrs. who is the lad leaning against the post on the outside.

(He is this curator's brother and was waiting to pick me up coming on the W. E. & L. S. Trolley from Windsor where I boarded with my grandmother during the SEVERAL RESIDENTS remember the "good old days" when there was work to do all year round. After the harvest was over, farmers would help cut and haul logs to mill and railway yards to be shipped to Detroit. Wages were 90 cents to $1 a day, and everyone worked.

At the time, Maidstone had several saw mills, flour mills, stave mills, and even a soft drink bottling works that advertised "Come on in, Ma's away, and we got Pop on ice."

ORIGINAL POST OFFICE in Maidstone. When it was torn down, the attic was found to contain a treasure trove of mementoes from the last century.

Frank McCloskey's grandparents came to Maidstone in the 1850's to escape the potato famine. His grandfather set up a stagecoach shop, building wagons and coffins.

McCloskey remembers playing hide-and-seek in the small shed of galvanized metal, and hiding in the coffins. "That's something you don't forget," he laughs.

His dad divided the shed into a two-floor general store, which he operated for several years before selling it to Mike Johns. The store was in business until this year, when it finally closed shop.

MCCLOSKEY remembers the days when store owners made deliveries by coach, and collected fresh eggs from area farmers.

"The Johns couldn't read or write," McCloskey says. "They'd just think of some prices for their goods from the top of their heads."

It was around this time that a Mr. McKinley, who operated saw and flour mills, put an upstairs in the old frame church and used it as a roller rink, drawing young and old from miles around.

In the late 1800's roads in the area were in terrible shape. Stagecoach operators would charge three different fares: first class would stay in the coach on bad sections of the road, second would get out and walk, and third would get out and push.

TOLL GATES were set up to pay for the upkeep of the roads, but July 21, 1896 all three gates, one Northeast of Essex, one in Oldcastle, and the third in Maidstone, were burned down by a group of area farmers fed up with paying to use the roads.

None of the arsonists was caught, and their ploy worked. On April 29, 1898, the Talbot Street Gravel Road Company stopped collecting and the toll gates were given up.

The first telephone office was set up in 1909 in Nace Halford's General Store. Three years later it was moved, then moved again to Mrs. Markham's home, where it remained until taken over by Bell Canada in 1957.

Those days had been all forgotten, until several years ago, when tearing down the old post office, the vered mementoes of the mid-1800's were found in the attic.

OLD BOOTS, pictures, papers, were turned up, a box of weaving cotton kind used on antique wheels.

This reminder of the past set many minds back to the road to the past, a road that those different times can never be forgotten.

Tony Mandato, owner of Manic Transport, stands among piles of lumber transferred from British Columbia through his yards, at Maidstone and Essex, to companies in the United States.

How did he get into this business and where does he figure he's headed.

A bit of luck and the guts to risk seizing an opportunity started it all. Right now he's holding the lid on it to avoid expanding and down the road he sees no end unless the Canadian dollar reaches par.

Tony Mandato was a broker in the trucking business - a guy who owned his own tractor and contracted to transport lumber from Windsor to Alabama.

When a company asked him if he would make the run to bring Quebec lumber to Michigan, he had his opportunity although he didn't take a serious look at first.

"Jokingly I said, why don't you bring it by rail and I'll transfer it to truck at the border and ship it to Detroit. He said fine. Find a spur. (A line of railroad track running to a siding)."

Tony began his search.

"I stumbled across this one," (Maidstone by the crossing of Talbot Road that serves Flood's feed mills.)

"I asked the railroad company if I could use it. I share it with Floods. All this property belongs to the railroad."

So Tony was in business with a rented forklift and a small office. His contact brought in two car loads a week and Tony loaded it on his truck to deliver it.

"I took a look at the dollars and cents and at the future. Then I leased the property from the railroad and contacted other companies (to bring in lumber for them). Then we kept on going to where we are now."

Well, it wasn't quite that easy. Tony admits he had some doubts at first.

"The first three months went nice. Then the first winter I sat here by myself almost a month and a half and never moved a stick of lumber."

"In that first year I was undecided which way to go. I was watching the market. It took two months, then she just flipped right around."

That was two years ago. Recently he leased the shipping yard and warehouse owned by Naylor Lumber Company in Essex. Ole Iversen is manager there.

"I've had to put a limit on the companies. I get a call a week and I turn them down."

He has six full employees and two part-time. Four major American companies deal with him, two in Oregon, one in Ohio and the other in Indiana.

As well he has a contract with Don Harrower of Cottam for his three trucks as a regular shipper. When he needs more trucks he phones companies to leave the word. Their brokers seeking back-hauls (a return load after a delivery that is preferable than making the trip without revenue), come out to Essex or Maidstone for a load.

"Some days I have fifteen, others five. There's a big push the last half of the month."

His transfer points do not represent a large investment but he thinks the two are all he can handle. He is one of several transfer companies in the area - and his business is small compared to Windsor's largest.

"I can make a good dollar. It's not a big investment but I don't want to expand."

A change in the economy could put pressure on him.

"If the economy were to turn in the States there'll be a bigger demand," he conceded.

To the comment that news reports say the lumber industry is at a standstill in British Columbia, Tony replies,

"They call this a standstill."

Despite news that British Columbia saw mills are closing and lumbermen are unemployed, lumber continues to move through the Windsor-Detroit border crossing to the United States. And local trucking firms are getting a share of the business.

Tony Mandato has transfer depots in Maidstone and Essex handling 50 train car loads of lumber a month, or more than two million board feet. Most of it comes from British Columbia, some from Quebec, and a small percentage from Manitoba. All of it goes to the United States - as far away as Alabama and Georgia.

In about two weeks the lumber comes across the country by CNR to St. Thomas, is transferred there to ConRail for Essex and Maidstone, then picked up by truck for its destination. Little, if any, stay in Tony's transfer depot more than two days. He is subject to a demurrage charge on train cars not ready to move out in 48 hours.

Most of it is spruce in a high percentage of 2x4s and 2x6s. Much of it is used in industry.

Tony says the Canadian spruce is superior for its products than American lumber. And it is cheaper.

Even shipping and transfer charges over great distances don't make it costlier than its American counterpart. It's one source where our devalued dollar is bringing money into Canada on exports.

And with all the travel distance, orders reach the destination faster than wood from American sources.

Maureen and John Colnutt are back in Regina, Saskatchewan. They had an enjoyable 10 day visit with their parents, relatives and friends. While visiting, a few skunks showed up at the Euchre tables. Gloria Burling and Gary McGuire skunked Syl McGuire and Ed Burling, the next night Ed Burling and Syl McGuire skunked Maureen Colnutt and Rick Baize.

Local Designer of Minister's Christmas Card

DECEMBER 21, 1984 - ESSEX FREE PRESS

Paul Shanahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Shanahan plays some of his artwork Stripe the gremlin, a character and animal sketch, along with two recent awards for his entries in 4-H competition. Paul's design for a Christmas card was accepted by the provincial minister of agriculture as his personal greeting.

Dennis Timbrell, Provincial Minister of Agriculture sent to his friends, was designed by a Maidstone Township youth.

Paul Shanahan, a student at Ste. Anne's high school, Tecumseh, had the winning design among 41 entries from Ontario 4-H members.

For that he won plaques from the minister and the local 4-H and the honour of having lunch with Timbrell's assistant, Bob Eaton. That was a very special luncheon with Mr. Eaton for Paul, the second and third place winners, and their parents.

Paul came close to missing that opportunity. Ian Rumbles, the local 4-H director with ministry of agriculture Essex office, suggested Paul enter because he had won in 4-H competitions.

But Paul didn't get busy until two days before the deadline when his mother, Mrs. Leo Shanahan, urged him to create an entry. With family suggestions, Paul painted a wreath with sprigs of wheat behind it and the fruits of Essex county in it, using colour pencil and pen.

Entries could be black and white but Paul reports the minister commended his colour effect as well as the design.

Art has captivated Paul since he was a pre-schooler. Along with his art course at high school he has taken two courses in sculpture, ceramics, oil painting and charcoal sketches from Al Linnel, the art director for the Essex County Civic and Education Centre.

His skill will become his career.

This is the Christmas card designed by Paul Shanahan of Maidstone Township for the minister of agriculture, Dennis Timbrell. Paul's design of a wreath with sprigs of wheat, grapes, apples, pears and peaches was one of 41 entries in the competition for 4-H members. The card was sent by the minister as his personal Christmas greetings and was identified as the work of Paul.

Paul sketches faces and animals and he has been doing some artwork in his welding classes, such as a gift for his Grandfather - but we can't describe that.

"I'm going to put it (training) to use in computer graphics," Paul said.

The high school course will prepare him as a professional artist and for entry into an art institute or university.

Perhaps the most artistic of his 4-H posters was one of a rooster with the caption, Don't Just Scratch the Surface, Dig Deeper, Become Involved in 4-H. Of course the poster carried the 4-H emblem.

monster jack-o-lantern, suitably carved into an angry scowl. The boys' effort this year tipped the scale at 90 kg (200 pounds), which beat out last year's effort that weighed a trifling 68 kg (150 pounds). Their secret? Plant about five seeds in your grandfather's garden, but don't let them all grow. Keep picking the weaker plants and pumpkins until you end up with one really big one. Now all they need is an extra-large candle and some trick-or-treaters to impress.

Thief ordered to pay $1,500 back to owner

An Ingersoll truck driver has been fined $500 and ordered to pay back $1,500 after pleading guilty to possession of stolen truck parts worth about $9,000.

Leonard Ferris, 41, was placed on probation for two years by County Court Judge W. T. Hollinger. During that time, he will be required to pay $1,500 to the Seneca Excavating and Drainage Co. Ltd. of Sandwich South Township.

Ferris and Csaba Csiki of Port Rowan, near Simcoe, were stopped by Essex OPP for a traffic violation April 26, 1983, while they were eastbound on Highway 401 in Rochester Township.

AN OFFICER noted truck parts in the rear of their pickup but accepted an explanation the parts had been purchased for Csiki's employer, Morris said.

OPP learned the employer denied any knowledge of the parts. Ferris and Csiki were charged later but none of the parts were recovered. Seneca was covered by insurance for $6,000 of the $9,000 loss.

Csiki didn't appear for Tuesday's trial and a warrant was ordered for his arrest. Dec. 21, 1984

Old local store takes on modern look

MAIDSTONE - Local residents mourned the passing of John's Grocery Store when it closed a few years ago.

The tiny market in the red brick building had occupied a spot on Talbot Road for most of this century. But the old brick building is back in service today under a new name - Maidstone Variety.

Although the inside has been gutted and modernized, the exterior of the building hasn't changed much, except for a chemical cleaning of the bricks to bring out their former charm.

The new owners are Paul Zinyk and Myrtle Lacroix. The 47-year-old Zinyk owns Pleasant Park Machine - a tool and die shop in Oldcastle.

ZINYK LIVES near the hamlet, and like other area residents, rued the closing of the old grocery store. As a result, he and Lacroix decided to invest in the building as a "hobby" venture.

Zinyk said the old walls wielded artifacts that provided hints into the building's history. Among the treasures: an old wooden planer, a root beer syrup bottle, a 1939 pub licence plate and a penny dating back to 1914.

But no one knows the building better than next door neighbor Frank McCloskey. He said his grandfather, also named Frank, built it around the turn of the century.

It served first as a place to build wagons and later as an office.

"I can remember hiding in the coffins as a little kid," Frank said.

MIKE AND Camela John took the building over in 1915, and operated the store for more than 60 years. Mike is now dead and Camela lives in a nursing home in Essex.

April 13, 1984, E.F.P. - MAIDSTONE CROSS: Leo and Dolly Shanahan would like to announce the safe arrival of several lambs to their sheep farm. In leaps and bounds these little bleaters have been arriving since mid-March and there are many more to arrive in April. A few have been orphaned and that means Dolly has been busy sterilizing bottles and preparing formulas for the little darlings. A temporary nursery has been set up in the basement. With a feeding every three hours, to say the least, Leo and Dolly get little sleep. They are also busy checking the expectant mothers for delivery. On the joyous side, there is nothing sweeter than a new born lamb and to rear an orphaned one means "ewe" have a friend for life. St. Mary's kindergarten class will visit on May 1st to see the lambs, feed them and hold them and of course ask all kinds of questions.

109-YEAR-OLD St. Mary's Church in Maidstone is getting a facelift

Church glory restored

MAIDSTONE — Not everything old is worth keeping.

But an old church which has accumulated the grace of St. Mary's is worth not only keeping, but also restoring to its best.

It's not the biggest church in Essex County — River Canard is much larger. Nor is it the oldest — Assumption is older. But, St. Mary's is still a beautiful church attended by the descendants of the pioneers who built it.

And, on the flat county horizon, it is a focal point for the Irish Catholic community which settled the Maidstone area a century and a half ago.

Rev. Linus Bastien says the parishioners of the 109-year-old Roman Catholic Church made a commitment about five years ago to revive the aging brick building.

SINCE THEN, Fr. Bastien says close to $400,000 has been invested in the church, on both structural necessities and esthetics.

The list of projects includes such fundamentals as new shingles on the massive roof, to a new heating system. Three years ago, the beautiful lead-lined stained glass windows were taken down and restored.

Inside, pews were stripped and refinished and a new heating system was installed. Local artist George Kaltika was hired to revive the mosaic which adorns the ceiling, and the interior of the church was repainted.

But the most-ambitious restoration work was done this year. This spring the church hired a private contractor to reinforce the large, wood trusses which hold up the roof. After a century of wear, the trusses were cracking, and in danger of letting the roof collapse.

THIS SUMMER, 12 people have been employed under a $137,000 federal/provincial makework program cleaning and repointing the mortar on the exterior or brick. That work is about four weeks from being finished, but it has not been without its controversy.

While most parishioners seem to favor the grant program, parishioner Don Flood said it is "unprincipled" to accept money from a federal agency.

"The parishioners are well able to pay for it," he said. "And if the parishioners can't afford to save it, it should have been torn down, and they could put up something they can afford."

"THE PARISHIONERS were very interested in restoration," he said. "We considered applying for a historical grant, but we had to do something right away."

Fr. Bastien said the stained glass was literally "falling out" before it was restored.

"There's a lot of community pride here," he said. "The building was built by these people's ancestors, and the stained glass was donated by their ancestors."

THE PARISH, in fact, is 137 years old. It started in a log church built by parishioners in a barn raising-style bee a little way down the road from the existing structure.

By 1848, it was clear a bigger church was needed. A small brick church was built, but needed replacing again within about 25 years.

The cornerstone for the new church was laid in 1874, and the plot for a new cemetery chosen. The church cost $14,000 back then, and was built with clay made at an Essex County farm.

The Roman Catholic community has grown, too. A two-room school built behind the church in 1960, has expanded into eight rooms, and is now part of the county separate school system.

While the village of Maidstone has diminished into a hamlet, it appears as though the church will remain as a dominant part of the community as far into the future as one can see.

The picture below of the school where all the Catholic children of the Hamlet of Maidstone and surrounding community attended from the turn of the century to the time of disposal as a school. This picture is also listed in the Schools of Sandwich South.

Graduation exercises for the Grade 8 pupils of St. Mary's school in Maidstone were held on June 28th at 6 p.m. with a mass of thanksgiving celebrated by their pastor, Rev. A.P. Marentette. Then the class teachers and parents went to the parish hall to enjoy a delicious buffet supper prepared by the Grade 7 mothers and served by members of the Parent - Teacher Committee.

The ceremony at St. Mary's school, Maidstone was typical of them all as 27 five and six-year-olds, marched in their best suits and gowns past Mr. Serdan as he presented their diplomas, assisted by their teacher Yvonne Lajoie.

Divided in two groups the tiny students entertained their guests with their rhythm band selections; songs "Old MacDonald" and Three Bears Song; and two charming dance numbers, "Go Round and Round the Village" and "Looby Loo".

Teacher Yvonne Lajoie said farewell to kindergarten work after 8 years in that department.

Linda and Tom Halford, Terry Collins, Betty Kotow and Yvonne Hergott, bowlers who participated in the bowl-a-thon for Brentwood, would like to thank all those who supported them. These fine people raised $1500 for the Brentwood restoration project. Good work! 4/27/8

It was established by the late Thomas Moran, who opened the general store, then composed, besides groceries, of yard goods, hardware, shoes and boots, etc. and was appointed the first postmaster for Maidstone Cross. He opened it when the first log church was built and St. Mary's Parish was formed. In 1890 he sold out to the late Ignatius (Nace) Halford, who was also appointed Postmaster, and he served the community for over fifty years and was honoured with a medal after His Majesty's Coronation, from George VI for serving 50 years as postmaster. In 1943 the Walkers came and Mary C. was appointed Postmistress, the position she still held. Many happy memories are linked with the Store and to the older generation, the business will indeed be missed. July 1, 1969 E.F.P.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES BEST

Twenty-five years of service by Bert Gauthier for BP Canada was recognized by the company gift of a gold watch. Bert, who is a Maidstone Township councillor as well as the winner of three Agent of the Year awards from BP, operates a bulk distributorship at Maidstone. Manager of Agencies Ron Collingbourne of Toronto office, Bert, District Manager S.W. Manley and District Supervisor Grant Roeszler, both of Chatham office, made the presentation.

When you work for one company for 25 years, you get a gold watch, according to tradition.

So three officials of BP Canada were here last week to do the honours for Bert Gauthier who operates the oil sales distribution centre at Maidstone.

It's not Bert's first award: it's the fourth. He was agent of the year for Ontario in 1978, '80, and '81. One of those times he was top in both Ontario and Quebec out of 160 dealers. Twice he won merit as the best district agent among 20. The award is given for sales volume, good administration and running a generally good operation, according to Ron Collingbourne, manager of agencies, Toronto.

Bert's answer to the query on how he wins top spot was, "One word: Service". Then he added, "service is our most important product."

Bert started as an agent in 1958 with Supertest which became part of BP Canada in 1972. Later he became the bulk oil distributor at Maidstone.

It's a family business with his son Paul and son-in-law Camiel as drivers, and daughter Geraldine as office receptionist.

"He's doing an excellent job for us and we hope he will continue for many years."

They've had the vote for 62 years, but for the most part women and politics have remained strange bedfellows.

The '70s, of course, brought them closer together with more women becoming politically active — 195 female candidates in the last federal election up from 72 in the 1972 campaign — but only 10 had found a seat in the House of Commons by the end of the decade.

About the same number of women that ran in the May election is seeking election this time around — a surprisingly low number at a time when women are rapidly advancing in other areas. But don't blame sexual discrimination for the shortage.

Political party spokesmen say the problem is that women are reluctant to run.

They don't want to risk their careers or short-change their children, or face the problems of dislocation if they're elected.

But what about the growing number of women who do?

What motivates them? What problems must they overcome? What are the chances of them being elected?

The Windsor Star approached the four area women running in the Feb. 18 federal election for the answers and found that their politics might be different, but many of their problems are the same.

We also talked with freelance broadcaster and former alderman Elizabeth Kishkon to see if things had changed since her entry into politics 10 years ago. And we found the times have definitely changed for the female politician.

This is what they had to say:

KATHY FLOOD, the Conservative candidate in Essex-Windsor riding is making her second run against Liberal incumbent Eugene Whelan.

She admits she's in for a tough race — she's something of a David to Whelan's Goliath — but she's confident she'll make a better showing than her poor third place finish last May. And she says she feels this way despite the fact she's not always taken as seriously as male candidates. Especially by women.

"For one thing, I'm better known than I was," says Ms. Flood. For another, she's got a better knowledge of the political ropes.

But the married mother of five says her decision to run was not made without some sacrifices.

She gave up selling real estate to concentrate all her energies on the campaign and she also gave up the amount of time she could spend with her family.

Ms. Flood admits she probably wouldn't have entered the race if husband Bob, who is a truck driver couldn't be home with the kids. This way she's free to campaign.

July 3rd., 1985, Windsor Star: VACATION END IN TRAGEDY RAN THE HEADLINES - A Maidstone family's vacation ended in tragedy when two young sisters drowned in a northern Ontario lake Sunday. Denise Miron, 12, and her sister Danielle, 6, were pronounced dead on arrival at Sudbury General Hospital after they were found floating in Nepewassi Lake south of Sudbury. Richard Miron, 35, said his daughters had planned to pick blueberries near their uncle's cottage when the late afternoon mishap occurred. The drowning happened so quick and it is not clear if the girls intended to enter the water or fell in, Miron said Tuesday night from Sudbury. He said he'd seen the girls in the water with an air mattress earlier in the day and warned them not to enter the lake alone again because neither could swim well.

Miron said neighboring cottagers last saw the girls carrying an air mattress along with their blueberry baskets. An uncle discovered them floating just below the surface in about three metres (10 ft.) of water near the rocky shoreline, a Sudbury OPP spokesman said. Efforts to revive the girls failed. Autopsy results were not yet available, the spokesman said, but drowning is presumed to be the cause of death.

The girls are to be buried in Sudbury following a funeral there at 4 p.m. today. Their deaths shocked the hamlet of Maidstone, where word of the tragedy spread quickly. Blais, a son of the parents, said Maurice Miron who travelled to Sudbury to join his family, learned the tragedy when an aunt phoned on Sunday. He got (a call) alright, one he didn't expect", Blais said. Blais described the girls as active outgoing children. "Everone in the neighborhood knew them". His wife Suzanne said the children have been visiting their uncle's Sudbury cottage for a number of years and the rocky terrain and lake were not new to them. "You're relaxed now that the kids are older", she said. "When they're younger you'd guard them like a hawk."

Danielle had graduated from kindergarten last week and was to enter the first grade at St. Ursula School in McGregor next fall. Denise was a sixth grade pupil at the school. Miron a Ford Motor Co. employee said the family has lived in the Sandwich South Twp. home on Malden Rd., since 1975. He and wife JoAnne, 35, are both native of Sudbury and planned to stay until the end of the month. They are survived by parents Richard & JoAnne, brothers Maurice, 16, Michael, 15, and sister Rachel, 14.

Mar. 27, 1986, Star: Pictured was Tom Shanahan and a feature story by Jim Cornett: 100 years down on the farm - Tom Shanahan was stoic and realistic when he replied to the expected question of how he felt about his 100th birthday on Good Friday. "It's not going to change anything. It's too late now," said the popular patriarch of the Shanahan Clan of Maidstone Township. He had hoped he would spend the day on the farm on Con. 7, North Middle Road, where he has lived all his life. But the father of 15 children has been in Windsor Western Hospital Centre for three weeks recuperating from a bad cold. "If it wasn't for this cold, it would be wonderful," he sniffed. Regarding the party his nine surviving children and others planned for him at Pine Grove Farms, owned by grandson Tim Shanahan, he declared "As soon as I get out of here, we'll try it again. I'm not going to let a little thing like this stop me." In the interval, the family had a Mass for him on Palm Sunday, at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Maidstone, his home church. His determination to get going again is typical of the hardy life he led on his farm, where he drove a tractor until he was over 85. He once compared farming in the past to farming today, "It was all work. There was no play. Now, they're playing football or hockey. There's nobody working at all." Shanahan drank "very little" liquor and couldn't recall smoking more than half a dozen packages of cigarettes in his lifetime. He brightened at hearing that Paul Martin had been concerned about him being in the hospital. It was Shanahan's late wife, Alice, who nominated Martin the first time he sought the Liberal nomination in Essex East (now Windsor-Walkerville) in 1935 and nominated him each election time during his 33 years as an MP. "My wife ran some of his campaigns and worked hard to get him elected every time, and he never forgot," Shanahan said of Martin. "He said he's coming to see me when he gets back home. And I know he will." The Shanahan home was the last stop for the Martin motorcades which wended their way through the riding in celebration of victory at the polls. Shanahan is anxious to see Halley's Comet as he did in 1910 - "It almost hit the ground the last time" - but he still has no desire to have his first airplane trip. The only trip he wants is by car to his home. And the sooner the better." Mr. & Mrs. Shanahan have always been in the hearts of our Township of Sandwich South as so many of their family has shifted to this area and besides both were rural mail couriers on R. R. No 1 Route out of Maidstone Post Office, which is in Sandwich South for over 25 years and are well known and admired by all.

Ontario Agriculture Minister, Hon. Lorne Henderson presented the Queen's Guineas, in the amount of $250 to Debbie, who said "I'm in shock, I can hardly believe it." The judge for the popular youth event was Fred Noad, of Alix, Alberta.

This was the second year for Debbie at the Queen's Guineas and the first time ever for Essex County to take the coveted prize, which is regarded as the ultimate for a 4-H Beef Club member. Debbie is a high school graduate and plans to attend the Ridgetown College of Agricultural Technology next year.

July 25, 1986, E.F.P - A balloon released July 19th in Salt Lake City, Utah, landed near Essex the next day.

Laura Gignac was with the family in the yard when she saw it drop into a group of trees. When she brought it down she could see there was something inside. The message read, "This balloon was in the children's parade in Salt Lake City on July 19th, 1986. Please write me and let me know where my balloon landed."

The name is of 13 year old Stephen Rust of Bountiful, Utah. Since Laura, 8, is also a school student she is excited about writing the letter and learning more about the balloon project.

By Hammond's Atlas, if the balloon were wafted in a direct line it travelled (1500 miles) 2300 km. That is about 50 mph if we presume the parade was held around noon. It landed on the Paul Gignac farm, R. R. 1, Maidstone, around 8.30 p.m. Sunday - about 30 to 32 hours.

Pioneer introduces alfalfa variety with verticillium wilt resistance

A new alfalfa variety with moderate resistance to verticillium wilt has been introduced by Pioneer Hi-Bred Limited of Chatham.

"Of all varieties on the Canadian alfalfa market, Pioneer (R) variety 5444 has the highest level of verticillium wilt resistance available," says Tim Welbanks, agronomy services manager for Pioneer.

5444 also has excellent tolerance to fusarium wilt and spotted alfalfa aphid, along with moderate ratings for potato leafhopper and bacterial wilt. However, Welbanks notes, this new variety should not be recommended on land where phytophthora root rot is a concern.

"We've found 5444 to be winterhardy with good growth and above average yields throughout the growing season," Welbanks says. The new variety has been tested in Canada for more than six years by both Pioneer and independent researchers. It also has been thoroughly tested in the United States and marketed there since 1985.

"5444 will be an ideal variety option for those alfalfa producers who have a real problem with verticillium wilt," Welbanks advises.

Pioneer Hi-Bred Limited is a leading producer and marketer of hybrid seed corn and sorghum-sudangrass hybrids, as well as varieties of alfalfa and soybeans. The company also markets Silabac (R) brand silage inoculants and Diamond (R) brand vaccines for hogs and cattle.

Mar. 18, 1987, E.T.P.- FUND TO AID IN FIRE TRAGEDY: The fire that claimed the life of a former Essex resident's child, also destroyed the home and everything in it. The First Maidstone 4-H Club

Have you been wondering what happened to this Club? Well, we are on our third meeting of Etiquette for the '80s. We had difficulty getting started, but our Club now has the following members: President - Nicole Johnson; Vice-President - Melissa Teskey; Secretary - Beth Plancke; Treasurer - Lisa Johnson; Press Reporter - Ed Abbey and members - Robert Jessop and Shelley Teskey. Our Leaders are Sharon Teskey, Bonnie Teskey and Leader Assistant, Shelley Teskey.

Do you know how to eat banana's with the skins on? The "Manners Masters" do. They remove the peel with their fingers, then break small pieces off the banana.

Basic table manners were taught for restaurants, banquets, home, along with dinner table manners demonstrated for both European and North American cultures.

If we ever get the chance we will know not to clink glasses when toasting the Queen.

Assistant leader Shelly Teskey gave an illustrated talk on some common French menu mystery words and their meanings.

We learned how to introduce a guest speaker and thank him after his speech.

Ed Abbey,
Press Reporter.

Maidstone 4-H Club

Hi! The "Manner Masters" have learned how to plan a trip, including how many clothes to bring and how to mix and match so we don't need as many clothes for our trip.

Girls would take the basic skirts, pants and tops that co-ordinate easily so they can mix and match. The boys would take shirts that co-ordinate easily with different pants and sweaters.

Packing a suitcase was demonstrated by our assistant leader Shelley Teskey. We also learned how to tip and when to tip on a trip.

When staying with a friend for a weekend some nice gift ideas would be houseplants, flowers, candy or a good book.

Ed Abbey,
Press Reporter.

The "Manner Masters" met recently at the home of Mrs. Sharon Teskey. We discussed "Close Encounters of the best kind... DATING."

This meeting was directed by our assistant leader Shelley Teskey (to save any embarrassment to our leaders Sharon Teskey and Bonnie Teskey).

We learned how to ask for a date and to refuse a date politely.

Did you know that corsages are pinned on with the stems down as the flowers grow and it is customary for the Mom or the girl to pin it on. Nov. 18, 1986 - V. of E. Farmer

THE SATURDAY WINDSOR

Life's never been d

'IT WAS interesting because we never knew what was coming up over the horizon..."

That's how 83-year-old George Hornsey quickly sums up his days on the Great Lakes and connecting rivers working on vessels ranging from freighters to tugboats.

The job that began when he signed on as a 16-year-old deck hand looking for adventure wasn't glamorous enough to keep him working at it beyond four years, however.

For one thing, he wasn't jubilant at the prospect of losing his life when the grain carrier on which he was serving was in danger of capsizing.

Being shot at by a hostile lumberman and being recruited with his workmates to fight a raging bush fire for five days didn't get him pleasantly excited either.

His remaining working days saw him building wooden bodies for cars in Windsor and Detroit, and he saw action overseas with the Essex Scottish Regiment during the Second World War, when he was injured during a bombing raid.

In the miscellaneous department, his activities have included writing sniping letters to the editor on various subjects, writing poems, one of which was used in a war bond drive in Woodstock, calling for square dances, serving a two-year stint as president of the Windsor branch of the War Pensioners Association of Canada and helping to organize the Essex County Senior Citizens Association.

At the moment he's settling in at Huron Lodge, Windsor's retirement home for seniors, following the death of his second wife, Helen, last August.

A NATIVE OF London, Eng., he was two years old when he came to Canada in 1905 with his parents, George Hornsey and the former Elizabeth Fletcher, and two sisters. On a second voyage a decade later, "we circled the iceberg that sank the Titanic."

He quit school in Stratford at age 12, worked in a harness factory, a threshing firm and at other jobs and then grew restless.

"I got the urge to go sailing in 1919 and the closest spot I could find with boats coming in was Goderich at the grain elevator. I waited on the dock while the Glenlyon unloaded its cargo of grain and I worked my way to Midland where one man was getting off. I got his job as a deck hand for $30 a month plus board."

Windsor was a port of call his first season and he remembers "my first impression was 'what a dump.'"

For most of the summer his ship sailed from Windsor to carry cars made in Detroit to Chicago.

"Hudson and Essex cars were brought from Detroit on the old ferry boats and switched to the Glenlyon at Windsor and taken to the municipal dock in Chicago. Regulations wouldn't allow a ship to go to one U.S. port to load and to go to another U.S. port to unload," he said.

"Then we would lift the ramps to get rid of fish flies in a layer six inches thick. They stunk. A pet bear we had ate them."

His second season was aboard the Glenfinnan but it was shortlived when "I kicked over the traces, resulting in a fight with the first mate and me being told to get off at the Sault," he said.

"We had too many Courtright sailors (those accustomed only to a short cross-river trip) on board and every time we rolled a bit somebody got sick and someone else had to do their job. This resulted in shifts lasting 36 hours without sleep while unloading grain.

"I GOT TIRED after 36 hours, went to bed and revolted when I was asked to do another job. I was told to get out of bed and batten down the hatches and I replied, 'okay, but not today, tomorrow.' The first mate ordered me of the school and give to children a creative and colourful introduction to the magic of theatre. This production is directed by a University of Windsor graduate, Stephen Coopman.

This wonderful story of the beautiful princess who must flee the palace in order to save herself from the evil queen has long been a favourite of children. Essex Tyke '86 Champs

In an exciting ball game down at the park, the tyke champs for the second year in a row were crowned. A very successful year and a lot of fun was had by the whole team and parents. Each boy always gave 100% everytime and the results were an undefeated year once again.

Thanks to manager Ron Harrison, to our ever on-time scorekeeper Elaine McCarthy, to Jimmy, Wayne and Bill who oftentimes helped us and to all the parents that sat on the lawn chairs and encouraged the boys and rooted them onto victory. Also to Minor Baseball who I feel was sometimes unjustly criticized during the season. Like the boys that play the game the executive also are there for fun and learning. Mainly the above boys are to be congratulated for a very successful year. That made my job easier. Coach Bill Bellaire

Rocky chose farm life and local scene

HE LIKES to tell about singing in a Detroit night club with Frank Sinatra and turning down offers to work with Bing Crosby, Arthur Godfrey, Kate Smith and Horace Heidt.

But Albert "Rocky" Rosnovan claims to have no regrets about choosing farming over a career in network radio or music halls.

"Entertainment was my hobby but it could have been my career," says the 67-year-old veteran of part-time music making. "I like the local people. I'd rather entertain 100 friends locally than 100 strangers in New York."

JIM CORNETT'S PEOPLE

As it turned out, nobody was able to keep him down on the farm after he saw the world of data processing. That line of work provided him with his daytime living from 1946 to 1982 in the Windsor-Detroit area.

At night and on weekends, he was leading bands at local night clubs, hotels and roadhouses.

"In the 1960s, I played the Bellevue (now Danny's) for five years when it was a classy place."

Today, the sax and clarinet player and vocalist leads a band through "the standards from the 1930s to the 1980s" on Saturday afternoons at Abar's Island View Tavern.

Rocky, a Detroit native who settled with his Romanian family on a Maidstone Township farm at the age of two, was 15 when he had his first tryout with a big name in show business.

KATE SMITH, the songbird known far and wide for her radio theme song When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain, presented Rocky with a mountain to climb.

She was in Detroit searching for talent for a daily radio program sponsored by the Tasty Yeast Co. in Trenton, N.J.

After singing P.S. I Love You, Rocky was picked for the job which called for singing and conversation 15 minutes a day for $150 a week.

"I didn't take it — I still wanted the farm life," Rocky said.

But he didn't come away from the audition without a spot somewhere in radio.

Joe Gentile, radio funnyman who went on to become a Detroit sportscaster, was there, too. He approached Rocky after the tryout and declared: "You've got a nice voice. Do you ever listen to Happy Joe? I'm Happy Joe." Cont. on following page

May 22, 1987, E. F. P. - Congratulations to Leneath Damphouse, daughter of Larry & Renee, who was married to Michael Pettit, on Sat., May 17th at St. Mary's Church, Maidstone. The bride and groom received a lovely send-off when a host of pink and white balloons were released as they left the church.

July 3, 1987, E.F.P. - Congratulations to the newly elected executive of the Maidstone Knights of Columbus: Bob Croft, Gerry Lachine, Mike Cassar, Dan Hebert, Harry Fraser, Gordon O'Neil, Jim Croft, Roy Deehan, Vic Polewski, Rocco Desantis, Ed. July 3, 1987, E.F.P. - Congratulations to the Grade eight graduates of St. Mary's School as well as the kindergarten graduates. Top grade eight student was Kristen Gyetvai, Oldcastle, and Christopher Angelini receiving the University of Windsor awards for outstanding scholastic achievement, and who on the Honour Roll. Others on Honour Roll were Brian Souilliere, Nicole Johnston, Jade Jobin and Heather Grondin. Female Athlete, Kristen Gyetvai and male Athlete, Ron Gagnon. Jade was valedictorian.

Joe was then the 26-year-old host of Early Morning Frolic, a three-hour program which was launched in the early 1930s and kept the 6 a.m. to 9 a.m. spot on Windsor's CKLW for more than 20 years.

Rocky accepted Joe's offer to join the cast as The Mad Man from Maidstone. Sometimes he opened the show when Joe wasn't present to go on the air at 6.

"While I was singing on the show, I got potato sacks of fan mail."

Rocky's first nightclub work was at 18 in Detroit where "the pay was $5 a night for a singer and two of the five dollars went to the booking agent."

Clubs on his list included the 509 Bar, The Bowery and the Flame Show Bar.

"I worked at The Bowery with Frank Sinatra when he was just starting out. The emcee was Frankie Rapp, still going strong around here."

At 19 he was offered a job at $50 a night to be a table singer — but not dancer — at Detroit's Commodore Club.

"I IMPRESSED people in a tuxedo I bought at a pawn shop. Everybody in the place was well-dressed."

"But I thought of the farm and the good, clean life and didn't show up one night."

Rocky's mind wasn't changed after the boss told him "you're a good-looking young man and you have a lot of talent — you're not going to be handed things on a gold plate."

He laughed about the offer of protection at the Arena Bar:

"Five guys were sitting at a table. They were beautifully dressed and they acted so nicely. One said 'We really like you. You're a nice kid. If anybody gives you a hard time, let us know, and we'll bring you back the buttons.'"

He could have had a stint on Detroit radio station WMBC's Happy Hour Club with Danny Thomas, Johnny Desmond and Dorothy Collins. But although his manager, Johnny Lunga, told him "you're going to be rich and you're going to be famous," Rocky retreated to Gordon O'Neill's farm near the Windsor Airport.

Even Bing Crosby asked through Rocky's manager that "this great singer" make a record to submit to him "but I never did a thing — I stayed on the farm."

"One time, in 1939, I got a telegram telling me to be at the Bowery Club to be on the St. Patrick's Day show at $500 for one night. But I didn't show up."

He preferred to stay on the farm.

"A couple of months passed by and a big limousine pulled up at the farm. Johnny Lunga got out and told me 'you're going to die in this place'. He told me off when I wouldn't leave and he left. He joined the army."

"That was the end of the night club career in the U.S. from 1935 to 1939."

ROCKY WAS MARRIED in 1940 to Dorothy Kett and they became parents of a son, Randy, and a daughter, Karen Bowman, both residing in Windsor. The marriage ended in divorce in 1978.

The same year he married he "bought a clarinet, took seven lessons and started a band — the Al Rosnovan Orchestra."

His nickname came in 1941 when he was coaching a fastball team known as the Transmission Rockets.

Offers started coming again in 1942.

"Scouts for the Horace Heidt and the Musical Nights show heard me at the Michigan Theatre and I was offered a chance to go on the circuit for $1,000 a week, sponsored by Philip Morris cigarettes."

"But my wife said 'you've got a good job at Ford, a band three nights a week, close to home. Don't go.'"

Rocky stayed with Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd., which he joined in 1940 in the plant. He transferred to an office job in the data-processing department in 1946 and five years later was head of the department.

To satisfy his desire to entertain musically, he lined up his five-piece band in 1945 to play at Lappan's Tavern for $5 per player nightly. That stint continued for 11 years.

ONE LAST SHOT at the big time came when "John, my brother, suggested I go to New York to try out for the Arthur Godfrey Show."

"In the studio, an old hag sitting at a piano said 'introduce yourself, tell me what you're going to do, and then do it.' I sang Wagon Wheels and was asked 'can you come back on Monday so we can arrange to put you on the talent show?'"

"My wife discouraged me from staying Friday, Saturday and Sunday because of my jobs at Ford and Lappan's so we went home."

He stuck with data processing, working for 10 companies in Michigan from 1956 until retiring due to heart trouble in 1982. Two years later he had triple bypass surgery.

"I played the Killarney when it was a classy club six nights a week with a group called the Ross Novan Trio. I think I was trying to kill myself. It was while I was commuting to Detroit."

Rocky married again eight years ago. He met his second wife, Patricia, a native of London, Eng., at the Towne House where he was singing.

"She loves music."

Rocky the promoter even promoted his own birthday party — "I wanted a party if I lived to be 65 so I promoted one, attended by 250 people on a Sunday afternoon at Royal Canadian Legion Branch 143."

"My 65th birthday was a birthday to remember — on May 3, I had a triple bypass and on June 3, I was playing at my own party."

MAIDSTONE CROSS

Congratulations to Tammy Mailloux, daughter of Barb and Doug, who recently won the Windsor Star Poetry Contest. Tammy is a St. Mary's graduate and a student at Essex High School in grade 13. She took first place with her poem that reflected the teenagers desire for communication with adults instead of preaching by adults.

"Just talk to me."

Don't Preach To Me

Don't preach to me about nuclear war, holocausts, the destruction of the world and its devastating consequences because I've heard it all before; about making the grade, being successful, being the best. Just leave me alone.

Don't preach to me about money, inflation, the cost of living or about talking to God, confessing my sins, burning in hell because I've heard it all before; about morals and values, and about what everyone else's children do. I don't care.

Don't preach to me about these things; war money God sex

Just talk to me.

THE VOICE OF THE ESSEX FARMER, MARCH 10, 1987

Built to Last

Dominic and Wilma Bissonnette
West of Essex and South of Maidstone

Built in 1919 by Alex Dawson, the home owned by Dominic and Wilma Bissonnette still boasts many original features. The metal roof, along with many windows, most of the molding and doors and the beautiful hardwood floors have been with the home since day one.

The large, squarish, two storey-home has four large bedrooms and a bathroom upstairs. Downstairs is the kitchen, another bathroom, den and a living room and parlour, separated by double sliding doors. The outside walls are doubled-bricked and the support beams in the home are of an impressive size.

After the Bissonnettes had moved into the home about 25 years ago, they remodelled the kitchen and added the downstairs bathroom. The home, which was one of the first in the area to receive electricity, has also been rewired and a more modern furnace was added. Before it was heated by coal.

The Bissonnettes, who raised seven children in the home, moved into a smaller house they built next door and currently rent the old one to a relative. They continue to farm.

The house was also occupied by Milford and George Dawson, sons of the builder.

The following early pictures of Maidstone Cross were purchased in Nace Halford's General Store in 1920 and were taken sometime previous to that. This curator who travelled to and from the city of Windsor to obtain a higher education, and who lived with her parents on a Maidstone farm, Conc. 9, often stopped in this store waiting for someone to come from home to pick her up. There were no buses those days that picked up students and take them to individual schools and returned them at night. I have had these in my possession ever since and am pleased to put them in this history of Maidstone Cross - Mrs. W.A. Crowder, then Myrtle Daniher. [The picture below is of the Gerry Collin's farm homestead on No. 3 Hwy.]

JAN. 23, 1937, E.F.P.

Harold Collard, aged 23, of Maidstone, who is employed at Geo. Myles' service station near the post office in town, had a narrow escape when his motorcycle was struck by a fast train at the Michigan Central Crossing on the main street of Essex. Mr. Collard was travelling from his home north of the tracks and as he drew near the tracks he saw the train. He applied the brakes but there was so much ice they didn't hold and he slid into the first track. The machine hit one of the cars of the train and was smashed to pieces. When the train passed, Mr. Collard found himself between the two main tracks, a space of about six feet.
